PLANNED "SOCIAL REVOLUTION"

Officials Uncover Plot for Violent Demonstrations
Throughout the Country

Arranged to Celebrate Second Anniversary of Establishment of Russian Soviet

(By Associated Press)

More than 500 alleged radicals who are said to have plotted violent demonstrations throughout the country today in commemoration of the second anniversary of the establishment of the Russian soviet government were in the hands of federal authorities awaiting deportation or such other action as may be ordered against them.

BOARD OF TRADE'S WORK APPRECIATED

Coincident with his announcement that conductors on the local street cars would sell tickets that allow 18 rides for $1, beginning tomorrow, Manager Thomas Lees of the local division of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co. has sent a letter to Secretary John J. O'Rourke of the board of trade expressing the appreciation of the efforts which the transportation committee of the board made in arranging for the sale of tickets in local stores. Appreciation is also extended to those stores. The letter follows:

Dear Sir: This will acknowledge receipt of your favor of the 5th relative to sale of tickets and assure you that we feel very grateful to the transportation committee of the board and to the dealers who have so cheerfully given their assistance in the matter of placing the tickets on sale in their stores. Very truly yours,
THOMAS LEES, Manager.

Federal Judge Doubts Validity of War Time Prohibition Act

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Doubt as to the validity of the war time
prohibition law, was expressed here today by Federal Judge Learned Hand. He voiced his opinion during argument on a motion to vacate an injunction classifying the Eastern Hotel as a "public nuisance" under the Volstead act. The injunction was obtained by the government after an arrest for the violation of the Volstead act had been made in a barroom on the company's property, less than four hours after the act became effective.

Graduated Increase for P. O. Employees

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The bill providing a graduated increase in the pay of postal employees, pending action of the congressional committee investigating the salaries of such employees, became a law at midnight without President Wilson's signature, 10 days having expired since its enactment by congress.

FORBIDS COAL TO FOREIGN OWNED SHIPS

An exceptional opportunity for local mill men and those interested in various industries to meet the leaders in various lines of industry from Belgium, France, Great Britain and Italy and to discuss with them trade conditions, is about to be afforded by the Lowell board of trade in cooperation with the Boston chamber of commerce.

Those local manufacturers whose products are exported will have a chance to get a first-hand view of conditions in those countries to which they send their goods as well as the countries from which they receive their materials.

A number of international trade commissioners, representing the four countries previously mentioned, are now touring a group of American cities under the auspices of the United States chamber of commerce.
They will be in Boston on Nov. 10
and 20 and the Boston chamber of commerce has arranged a program for the two days that will give manufacturers from all over New England an opportunity to meet the foreign representatives personally.

On Wednesday evening, Nov. 13, a dinner will be held at the Copley plaza hotel in honor of the commissioners. On Thursday morning there will be four trade conferences, one for each of the countries represented by the commissioners. Subjects to be discussed will include textiles, wool, cotton, shoe and leather, chemicals, reconstruction supplies and shipping. Following these conferences a luncheon will be held and all present will be the guests of the Boston chamber of commerce.

Secretary John J. O'Rourke of the local board of trade has been requested by James A. McKibben, secretary of the Boston chamber of commerce, to bring the matter before the attention of local mill men and to arrange for those who wish to attend the two-day conference or any one session of it. Mr. O'Rourke will get in touch with local mill men immediately so that a representative dele-

LOCAL STORES TO CLOSE ALL DAY TUESDAY

At a recent meeting of the Merchants' Association of Lowell it was voted to close all of the city stores for the entire day on Tuesday, Nov.
11, proclaimed by Governor Coolidge as Armistice day. Generally throughout the city all business will cease, although the textile mills have announced that their operatives may work if they so desire, but all pro-

NO BUTTON DAY FOR RED CROSS

Lack of Time Causes American Legion Members to Abandon Their Plans

Selling Booth Does Thriving
Business and Roll Call
Workers Active

The button day which was to have been the feature of the Red Cross roll call campaign in the city today did not materialize because of the lack of sufficient time given the American Legion members to prepare a systematic method of canvassing and to enlist enough men for the work. It was an 11th hour suggestion at best and officers of Lowell post said today that the time was entirely inadequate.

It had been planned to turn over the canvassing to the legion and to allow service men to sell the Red Cross buttons and memberships on the streets
during the day and evening. A special meeting of the legion post was called for last night to make the plans for the assignment of routes, etc., but there were only a dozen members present and nothing definite was done. Up until noon time today only one man had called at the Community club to offer his services as a canvasser.

A Perfect Day Lost

It is to be regretted that this contingency could not have been foreseen,
for the Pawtucketville residents, who previously had planned to conduct a tag day today in the interests of its welcome home celebration, withdrew
at the suggestion of Mayor Thompson
so as not to interfere in the least with the Red Cross plans. The fine weather brought out thousands of people
during the afternoon, an ideal opportunity for soliciting for a worthy cause.

Red Cross Booth

The Red Cross booth in the Chaffoux store, in charge of Miss Barbara Marlin, did a thriving business. Assisting were Miss Leslie Hyman, Miss Mary Holden, Miss Mildred Heals and Miss Talbot, and all reported that the memberships were easy to obtain and that all persons approached were anxious to give $1 toward the work.

At an enthusiastic meeting of team workers and the membership executive committee last night at St. Anne's parish house it was announced that more than 3500 Lowell men and women have joined North Middlesex chapter during the campaign so far.

This was only the report, but it was far from complete, for none of the manufacturing plants have been heard from, or have many of the stores.

20,000 the Goal

By Monday night the workers hope that the enrollment will be in excess of 20,000 and it is safe to say that the half way mark has been reached and passed, if it were possible. At this time to give an accurate report on the entire work. Many organizations and firms have reached their 100 per cent totals and among the ones announced last night were: Lowell fire department, Lowell water works department office, C. M. Holmes company, Locks and Canals, E. W. Hoyt company office, Harry Pitts store,
Buick Motor company, Dana's garage,
city hall employees, United States
Mailing Case company and the C. P.
Hatch company. It was learned this morning that the J. L. Chaffoux company has enlisted its entire personnel and other firms are well on the way.

Fine Results in Highlands

The highest team total reported last night came from Mrs. Edward Hyman, whose corps of workers have obtained
$29 members in the Highlands section of the city. Capt. P. F. Hayward of Team 1 collected a total of 327 memberships and a money total of $561.
The executive committee also announced a gift of $100 from Mary G.
Morrison.

Following a substantial support the business meeting was opened by Chairman Paul B. Chandler, who urged redoubled activity in the few days remaining. He introduced as the first

U. S. District Court Orders Mine Workers Officials to Withdraw Strike Order

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 8.—The United Mine Workers of America were today ordered to withdraw the strike order under which 400,000 men quit work Nov. 1. The mandate was issued by Judge A. B. Anderson of the United States district court, after a hearing in which the union attorney fought vainly for a chance to present arguments on the right to strike.

Echoes of the State Cam-

Registration in Order

With the close of the state campaign and the election of officials to serve at the state house next year,
Lowell voters now turn their attention to the local political arena. No such hiatus as ensued between the state primaries and the state election will occur between the city primaries and the final election and for that reason the campaign will necessarily be brief and lively.

The preliminary city election or city primaries will be held one week from next Tuesday, Nov. 18. The final city election will take place three weeks
later, Dec. 9.

The defeat of Plan B last Tuesday has cleared the atmosphere of a lot of uncertainty regarding the details of city political affairs and now the stage is set for action on the part of the candidates. Twenty-five or more of them have announced their intention

ron, who has not been seen since she left school to come home yesterday afternoon. The child's parents are greatly worried over her failure

She is described as of medium height little Florence was telephoned to them, the police neglected to get her

CADILLAC PRESIDENT
LOOKS INTO FUTURE

"One of the reasons why so many people are disappointed in getting the things they want and need, is that they do not prepare," said R. H. Collins, president of the Cadillac Motor Car Co., in discussing the motor car outlook for 1920. "The fact that I knew I would want a rifle in November, caused me to order it last spring. As a result, I was not disappointed. I got the rifle when I wanted it."

"Neither the Cadillac company nor its distributors want to be placed in the position of disappointing so many people as were unable to provide themselves with our cars this year."

"It may be remembered that a year ago, immediately following the armistice, this company announced that it would resume normal production of motor cars as rapidly as conditions would permit. At the same time, we expressed our belief that it would not be possible to build in 1919 all the Cadillac cars the world would want."

"It appears now to be reasonably certain that the same conditions will obtain next year. Undoubtedly the Cadillac's war record has measurably heightened the public's appreciation of the car, which means that the Cadillac market is much wider than heretofore—and even before the war it never was fully supplied. We can do no more than present the facts as we see them."

Child Almost Dead
Grandmother Saves Life

Roxbury, Mass. A grandmother in Roxbury writes: I put great faith in your medicine and that of my child was dying. The doctor said she could not live until morning, and I ran out to the drug store, got a bottle of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and gave her the first dose at once, and at night I gave her the other half. I thought it either kill or cure for the doctor said she was dying, but she did not die. She went to sleep the first sleep for a week, and the next morning she passed two worms, red in color, six inches long. The doctor came to see if she was dead, but he ran out pretty quick, as she was sitting in her chair eating a bowl of oatmeal and milk. That was twenty-four years ago, and now she has a baby girl of her own, seven months old, who is also using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. (Name on request.)

Constipation, headaches, tired feeling, weakness, spots before the eyes, bad breath, sleeplessness, irritability, dizziness, and many other signs of weakness, can be relieved if you take the prescription known as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. MORE TROLLEY AND
JITNEY TROUBLE

Unless jitney licenses between North Chelmsford and Lowell are suspended the electric cars will not operate between Stevens' corner and Woods' corner in North Chelmsford. Such is the decision of the trustees of the Eastern Massachusetts Railway Co. and notice to that effect has been sent to the board of selectmen of the town. The company claims that the poorest paying portion of their road in the village is between Stevens' corner and Woods' corner and that jitney competition is to continue there will be no profit for the railroad company in running cars beyond Stevens' corner.

It will be remembered that some time ago the trustees of the road threatened to discontinue the line between North Chelmsford and Tyngsboro unless the town of Tyngsboro came across with a certain sum of money for repairs to the road, which were badly needed. As a result a special town meeting was held and it was voted to retain the Tyngsboro service. It is claimed that at that time although there was no mention of it at the meeting, the action of the Tyngsboro citizens was conditional upon the adoption of the jitney act by the town of Chelmsford, for most of the names on the petition to the Eastern Massachusetts Railway Co. for the retention of the line were those of residents of North Chelmsford.

The trustees of the road claim that prior to the special town meeting in Tyngsboro they sent a letter to the board of selectmen of that town stipulating that the line would be continued providing the town showed a willingness to co-operate with the company by appropriating the amount of money allowed by law, and providing also that the town of Chelmsford adopt the 1910 act of the legislature regulating jitney traffic. The citizens of Tyngsboro deny this, however, and declare there was no such stipulation mentioned. In view of the unexpected development there is a possibility that the selectmen of Chelmsford will be petitioned to call a special meeting to take action on the matter.

PATRIOTIC SERVICE
TOMORROW EVENING

A very attractive and patriotic service will be held at the First Congregational church tomorrow evening at 8.30 when a large number of ex-servicemen of both the army and navy will attend in a body. With Armistice Day only a few days distant, this unique patriotic rally will hold a special attraction for everybody, particularly these men who saw service in the recent war.

Mayor Thompson will speak and a chorus of more than 200 will sing popular war songs and Mrs. Roberts will sing a solo. All the ex-servicemen are urged to attend this service in uniform. The Boy Scouts and the Girl Scouts will also come in uniform. The Rev. Chauncey J. Hawkins will speak, the subject of his talk being "A year later."

LADD AND WHITNEY CIRCLE

At a recent meeting of Ladd and Whitney circle, No. 3, Ladies of the G.A.R. the annual inspection of the circle took place. There was a large attendance and present also were: President Mrs. Amy Schurman, Dept. Junior Vice President Mrs. H. White, Dept. Inspector Mrs. Brackett, Dept. Sec. Mrs. Emma Vesey, and guests from Lawrence and Malden. The circle has accepted an invitation to attend the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Davis on Nov. 14 at their home in Wilder street. In the early part of the evening supper was served by Mrs. Fanny Hovey assisted by the matrons, Mrs. Blaisdell and Mrs. Bryant.

LOWELL HOLDS WOBURN
High School Eleven Shows
Excellent Form in Game
Which Ends 7 to 7

The Lowell high school football team showed a surprising reversal of form yesterday afternoon when Woburn high was held to a 7 to 7 tie at Spalding park. The score hardly indicates the respective merits of the eleven, for throughout the game Lowell showed a line-splitting attack of considerable power and tossed away scoring opportunities because of faulty judgment and lack of resourcefulness.

The work of the local team was at least 50 per cent. better than in any previous game of the season and the respect brought into the spotlight one Trull, a hard hitting halfback, who opened up the Woburn line from tackle to tackle and seldom failed to register gains varying from 5 to 10 yards whenever called upon to carry the ball. His playing was the outstanding feature of the game and brought real joy to the heart of Coach Conway, who has been looking for a dependable line-backer for some time. This boy Trull hit hard, swift and low and the Woburn linemen turned over the job of stopping him to the secondary defense.

First Period
The game started with Woburn kicking off to Lowell, who brought the ball through the back line before being thrown. From that point to Woburn's 15 yard line the Lowell team carried the ball without the slightest sign of hesitation. Trull, Linton, and Conway were driven hard by O'Hare, who clicked off the first downs with beautiful precision. The Woburn defense stiffened, however, as the ball advanced into its danger zone and although Trull plunged through for a first down on the 15 yard mark, it was tough going and a moment later when O'Hare switched over to a forward pass, the tackle-guard hole on the right hand side, the Lowell back who held the ball was smeared for a 10 yard loss before he could toss it. Woburn's ball on her own 25 yard line. It was O'Hare's first technical blunder and it cost a touchdown. When he saw the Woburn line stiffening he should have run his plays wider instead of trying to slide them all through the tackle-guard hole on the right hand side. Woburn saw that the Lowell leader showed no intention to switch his attack so plugged up the hole and stopped the advance dead. Woburn pointed out of danger, but Lowell soon surrendered the ball once more on downs near the middle of the field. O'Hare decided to make the attempt to gain his first down rather than punt. That was another slip-up. Lowell recovered a Woburn fumble just as the quarter ended.

Second Period
From the 40 yard line O'Hare drove his team into the shadow of the Woburn goal posts only to be stopped at the 2 yard line by a scolding defense. Rice punted from behind the line and O'Hare gathered in the egg on the 35 yard mark. Back to the line-plunging game went the Lowell leader, but happily stopped the advance dead. Woburn pointed out of danger, but Lowell soon surrendered the ball once more on downs near the middle of the field. O'Hare decided to make the attempt to gain his first down rather than punt. That was another slip-up. Lowell recovered a Woburn fumble just as the quarter ended.

Third Period
Failure on O'Hare's part to play the game safe cost Lowell the game in the third quarter. Following the Woburn kickoff, Lowell hammered the line to her own 45 yard line. It was fourth down with three yards to go, but O'Hare would not punt and failed as he shifted his play on the 25 yard line from a bluff to a real attack. Woburn started an offensive which did not stop until a touchdown had been registered. The score was rather fluky, inasmuch as a Woburn back fumbled the ball in the last charge from the 5 yard line, but Gustafson, right half, recovered the leather back of the line. Rice, Woburn quarter, who had played a fine game and was a cucumber in coolness and poise, tied the count when he lifted the ball between the uprights from a tough angle.

There was no more scoring, although Lowell tried to get a man free in the fourth period through the medium of a forward pass, which was tried many times without result.

Final score: Lowell 7, Woburn 7.

DEATHS

TATKOS—James, infant son of George and Anna Tatkos, died yesterday at the home of his parents, 14 Flood avenue. The body was taken to the chapel of Undertaker James F. O'Donnell & Sons.

CHAMBERLIN—Warren B. Chamberlin died Thursday in Carlisle, aged 65 years. He leaves his wife, Elizabeth D. Chamberlin.

CONLEY—Died, Nov. 8, in this city, Annie L. Conley, aged 73 years, 7 months, 24 days, at his home, 9 Methuen street. He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Alden B. Hisey, and two granddaughters, Clifton Corless Hisey and Karl Alden Hisey. Mr. Conley was a member of the North Lodge, A.F. and A.M. O'Brien lodge, I.O.O.F., and Elgint Encampment, I.O.E.F.

BOLDUC—The many friends of Albert Bolduc, aged 44 years, a well known resident of this city, will be grieved to learn of his death, which occurred yesterday at the Lowell Corporation hospital, as a result of an operation for an abscess in the stomach. Mr. Bolduc had not been feeling well for the past two or three weeks, and although he was not working, he was able to be around. Last Sunday he was removed to the hospital, where he was operated upon Wednesday. Deceased, who for some time was employed as a wire clerk in the whole sale store of L. F. L. Turcotte in Merrimack street, was well and favorably known in this city, where he had lived practically all his life. During the war he was employed at the Helme Electric Co. He was a prominent member of the U.M.W.C., Lowell Aerie of Eagles, Branch Pawtucketville, A.C.F., and La Classe Nationale de Beneficence. He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, Mrs. Rose Anna Smith Bolduc; an aunt, Mrs. Louise Legare, and three nephews in Canada. The body was removed to his home, 537 Moody street, by Undertakers Amedee Archambault & Sons.

Run Organizers Out of Town

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Nov. 8.—Determined to run "organizers out of town," it is said a committee of business men of the city has given two labor organizers until 5 o'clock this afternoon to leave Johnstown. Meanwhile the city is quiet, but the committee is on the alert and "ready to take further action" unless the organizers comply with the request, it is stated. The organizers are T. J. Conboy of the steel workers' union and Dominick Gelotte of the United Mine Workers. Both were requested last night by the committee to leave the city after William Z. Foster, secretary of the national steel strike committee, was forced to leave Johnstown where he was scheduled to speak before steel strikers. Conboy was given until 5 p. m. today to arrange his affairs upon his ascent to comply with the request.

Mr. Foster is at Allentown, Pa., where he is to address steel strikers today. The business men's committee of Johnstown was formed two weeks ago to take what action it could relative to the coal and steel strike situation here. It includes H. L. Tredonick, president of the Chamber of Commerce and W. R. Lunk, secretary of the Y.M.C.A.

Hoover to Deliver Lecture

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 8.—Herbert C. Hoover, has accepted the invitation extended him to deliver the Dodge lectures on "Responsibilities of Citizenship" during the next university year. Mr. Hoover, a graduate of Leland Stanford Junior University, was given the honorary degree of doctor of laws by Yale in 1918.

32 Places Accept Double Platoon

BOSTON, Nov. 8.—The two platoon system for fire departments was accepted by 32 cities and towns, and rejected by six, in the state election of Tuesday. Official figures of the vote in the 38 places which voted on the question of adopting the legislative referendum on the subject were announced today. Boston, Newton, Brookline, Melrose, Malden and Beverly rejected the proposal.

FUNERALS

KLOZA—The funeral of Wladyslaw Kloza took place yesterday afternoon from the home of his parents, Felix and Annia Kloza, 17 Spring street. The services were held at the Holy Trinity church in High street by Rev. A. Ogonsowski. The bearers were J. Bielawski, E. Matyko, M. Baranowski, J. Staszewski, B. Janenko and H. Janenko. Burial was in the family lot in St. Joseph's cemetery. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertaker J. Sadowski.

CONNORS—Francis Connors, beloved son of James J. and Genevieve (Reardon) Connors, of 10 Kingsley street, Allston district, Boston, died this morning at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Reardon, 28 days. Besides his parents, he leaves two brothers, Lester and Frederick. The burial took place this afternoon at 3 o'clock and owing to the cause of death (cerebral spinal meningitis), the funeral was private. Burial was in St. Patrick's cemetery, Lowell.

Favor Ratification of Prohibition

COLUMBUS, Nov. 8.—Complete official returns from 73 of the 88 counties and complete unofficial returns from the remaining 15 counties, with the exception of seven missing precincts in two dry counties, as compiled shortly before noon today, at the office of secretary of state, gave the drys a majority of 859 in favor of ratification of the federal prohibition amendment.

Deport Aliens Caught in "Red" Raids

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Deportation of all aliens engaged in "red" activities has been determined upon by the department of justice, Attorney General Palmer announced today. Details of the widespread clean-up of radicals last night and today show that more than 200 were arrested in 18 cities. Mr. Palmer has asked the department of labor to deport all of them. Agents of the department of justice and the bureau of immigration have been collecting evidence in these particular cases for two months, Mr. Palmer said. "Practically all of those arrested were Russians. Included among the material and literature seized by government agents in the raid were quantities of articles used in making bombs, a complete counterfeiting plant, a large supply of counterfeit banknotes, thousands of pieces of literature described as of the most inflammatory nature, and scores of red flags, rifles and revolvers."

REQUIEM MASSES

SHEAHAN—An anniversary mass of requiem will be celebrated Monday morning at 8 o'clock at St. Peter's church, for Mrs. Dennis Sheahan.

GRIFFIN—There will be an anniversary mass for Mrs. Hannah O'Connor Griffin at 8 o'clock at St. Patrick's church Tuesday morning.

Twenty-eight million tires annually are needed to equip the passenger and motor trucks in use in the United States.

LOWELL DOCTOR TALKS ON TUBERCULOSIS

BOSTON, Nov. 8.—"It has been pretty thoroughly proved that consumption is not hereditary, and that infants and children are not born with the germs of tuberculosis in them, but acquire them after birth from careless association with those of the family who have the disease or from being in a house that has not been thoroughly renovated after a tuberculosis patient has occupied it," said Dr. Charles E. Simpson of Lowell in his address on "The Control of Tuberculosis" in the Public Health series in the exhibition hall of the Jordan Marsh company annex yesterday afternoon.—Dr. Simpson is the state health officer of the North Middlesex district, and his experience with tuberculosis extends over many years.

"Unless the physician warns a patient who has pulmonary tuberculosis, it cannot be expected that the immediate family and the public will be safeguarded properly, nor that the patient will pay close attention to the minor details that are so essential to his recovery."

"In the early cases if steps are taken as soon as the disease is discovered a large proportion of the cases will return to practically the same condition that they were in before the starting up of the active symptoms."

"Though practically all dusty trades have a tendency to irritate the membranes of the air passages and make them more susceptible to infection, the individual will not develop tuberculosis unless the special germ of that disease is present," continued Dr. Simpson.

"Infancy and childhood are the periods when we are most susceptible to infection."

"No case is absolutely hopeless, and the outlook in very early cases is exceedingly hopeful."

"To combat the spread of tuberculosis successfully we must have the co-operation of all in the community. We can try to have all milk pasteurized. All cases of tuberculosis in individuals should be reported at once and all suspected cases should be carefully examined. Other members of the family should be examined at least twice a year, and a nurse should be available for consultation with the family as to the best method of protecting themselves."

In closing the lecturer offered the following suggestions: "The patient should take great care to cover his mouth when coughing and should wash his hands frequently."

"He should have separate dishes and have them cleaned with boiling water. Sputum should be burned and all body discharges carefully cared for. Flies should be killed. Kissing should be absolutely debarred. The patient should have a separate sleeping room, so situated as to have plenty of light and air."

"The house should be kept scrupulously clean, the floors and wood-work washed with soap and water as well as some strong antiseptic, well aired, and on removal of the patient it should be carefully renovated."

"If the patient is properly taught and carefully follows instructions, he is of practically no danger to the family or community, and he should in no way be made to feel the contrary. It is only in the case of some lapse in the care that frequent examinations of other members of the family are made."

"These examinations should be kept up for at least two years after the removal of the danger, as an infection is often slow in its manifestations."

"The fact that careful tests show that a very large proportion of the people at some time in their lives have been infected with tuberculosis, although not having the disease, shows that personal resistance is a very important factor in protection. For this reason we should avoid unusual and unnecessary drains on our system, and should at all times exercise strict personal hygiene and keep our bodies in the best possible condition."

SCRIBE GETS NEXT TO SOME HORSE SENSE

The old gray mare of storied fame may not be what she used to be—but she's not a hack number yet.

This in spite of the fact that with the advent of the gas-driven bladders and skyrocketing demand for horses has decreased over 80 per cent in Lowell and elsewhere.

No, the horse may be going, but he—and she—have not gone. And they never will.

At least that's what Jerry thinks; and he surely ought to know.

Jerry has lived well onto a score of years in this queer old planet of ours. Years ago he was a cab-horse. Since the gas-buggy has done away with horse-drawn cabs and such he pulls a milk wagon. And you can take it from us, Jerry knows full well whereof he speaks.

Jerry can remember when his master had no difficulty in buying a pound of sugar in those good old days of yesteryear. He can remember, can Jerry, when of H.C.A. was totally unheard of and when a dollar was really good for something.

But to return to the question of whether the horse is on the way to oblivion or not. As aforesaid, Jerry doesn't think so.

"And I'll tell you why," confided Jerry, when we took out our notebook and asked him to state his case. "The horse will always be with you because people like horses. And then there are other reasons, too."

"Take the case of a handsome, well-dressed woman," continued Jerry, shaking his head sadly. "Well, you see, when a lovely woman, arrayed in all the finery so dear to the feminine heart, gets into a limousine, she's completely shut off from the rest of the world. She can't display her beautiful clothes. But when she rides in a carriage behind a well groomed pair of horses—then all the world can give her the 'once over' and admire her charms."

"Then here's another reason. It doesn't cost much for a man and a maid to drive over a country road, or through the highways and byways of a city, in a buggy. And many of the men I know who won his wife in just this fashion. But if he tries to propose in a taxi he'll get the shock of his young life when he reads the meter after she has said that she'll wash dishes for him for life."

"Years ago, when I was young," added Jerry reminiscently, "there must have been fully 2000 horses in use in Lowell. But today I doubt if you'll find more than 1500. All on account of the automobile. The majority of folks in this rapid-fire age prefer speed to comfort and they've sold their horses and bought machines."

"And of course in many lines of business it has been found that an auto can do the work required much more efficiently than a horse, although many men in Lowell prefer a horse-drawn vehicle for short trips about the city on the grounds that it is cheaper."

"Lots of folks had much rather see a good horse race than an auto race," Jerry pointed out to us. "There's something about a horse race that thrills one more than any other kind of sport. At least that's what my master used to say before he died."

"Perhaps it's just as well he's gone, too," Jerry commented with a twinkle in his eye. "Not that he was ever unkind to me—far from it! But he used to enjoy a nice long drink of beer on a hot night and if he'd lived in these times of drought and 'half per cent' I don't think he would have felt that life was worth the living."

"No, I don't think the time will ever come when horses will not be seen on the streets of Lowell," Jerry declared emphatically in conclusion. "In fact I believe they'll be more numerous in another decade than they are today. Perhaps there won't be many used for heavy work, but you'll always find men and women who prefer a horse to a Packard—or an aeroplane—and who won't be satisfied with any substitute."

"Well, I guess I'll have to say 'good-by' for now," said Jerry, casting an appraising look at his boss who was just emerging from a near-by house.

"Wonder if he has been trying to explain to the folks there why the price of milk is so high," whispered Jerry as he straightened up in preparation for his departure. "Lots of cows nowadays. Queer that milk should be so dearness expensive." And with that he was gone.

Maybe we'll see him again some time before he goes to the horses' happy hunting ground, where all good horses go. If we do, perhaps he can tell us who Lowell's next mayor will be. He's a wise old bird, is Jerry, and he might know, at that.

SERIOUS KIDNEY TROUBLE

Government Inspector in Rochester Prize "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

MR. R. B. O'FLYNN

23 North Union St., Rochester, N. Y.

"For five long years, I was afflicted with Stomach, Liver and Kidney Trouble, which developed into serious Bladder Trouble. During that time, I am safe in saying I tried over 60 different remedies without relief."

I saw a testimonial of, I think, a Montreal man about 'Fruit-a-tives' and concluded to make one more trial. By the time the sample box was finished I found quite an improvement; and when I had finished a 50c. box, there was a grand improvement far beyond my expectations."

To make a long story short, I believe 'Fruit-a-tives' or Fruit Liver Tablets the best Stomach, Liver and Bladder Medicine the world has ever produced."

business it has been found that an auto can do the work required much more efficiently than a horse, although many men in Lowell prefer a horse-drawn vehicle for short trips about the city on the grounds that it is cheaper."

"Lots of folks had much rather see a good horse race than an auto race," Jerry pointed out to us. "There's something about a horse race that thrills one more than any other kind of sport. At least that's what my master used to say before he died."

"Perhaps it's just as well he's gone, too," Jerry commented with a twinkle in his eye. "Not that he was ever unkind to me—far from it! But he used to enjoy a nice long drink of beer on a hot night and if he'd lived in these times of drought and 'half per cent' I don't think he would have felt that life was worth the living."

"No, I don't think the time will ever come when horses will not be seen on the streets of Lowell," Jerry declared emphatically in conclusion. "In fact I believe they'll be more numerous in another decade than they are today. Perhaps there won't be many used for heavy work, but you'll always find men and women who prefer a horse to a Packard—or an aeroplane—and who won't be satisfied with any substitute."

"Well, I guess I'll have to say 'good-by' for now," said Jerry, casting an appraising look at his boss who was just emerging from a near-by house.

"Wonder if he has been trying to explain to the folks there why the price of milk is so high," whispered Jerry as he straightened up in preparation for his departure. "Lots of cows nowadays. Queer that milk should be so dearness expensive." And with that he was gone.

Maybe we'll see him again some time before he goes to the horses' happy hunting ground, where all good horses go. If we do, perhaps he can tell us who Lowell's next mayor will be. He's a wise old bird, is Jerry, and he might know, at that.

AMERICANIZING ALIENS

The classes attended by naturalized men and women seeking citizenship are the most powerful of the many Americanizing forces now at work.

We would all be better Americans if we could attend these classes and have our minds refreshed on the advantages and blessings of this country and government.

The main idea expounded to applicants for citizenship is that while our country is not perfect, yet it offers greater freedom and opportunity than any other government.

Especially important is the emphasis that our government is a mutual agreement between the people and that any undesirable or obsolete features of it can be changed through the ballot box or by other peaceful means. Methods of violence are not necessary, and will not be tolerated.

Of all instruction given citizenship classes, the most vital deals with an American citizen's rights and duties.

First is the right to freedom. Then there is the right to liberty in religion, to freedom of speech and press, the right to assemble freely without disturbing the peace, and the right to petition public officers and obtain hearings.

Fifth and sixth of fundamental American rights are the right to fair treatment if accused of crime and the right to vote and hold office. The latter fortunately being extended to include women.

Duty is the fair price of right.

The citizen's duties to his government—meaning his organized fellow citizens—are:

The duty of obeying laws, all of which are subject to change at the demand of the majority.

The duty of helping to enforce the laws, even to such details as maintaining clean houses and clean yards.

The duty to vote intelligently. This duty unfortunately is so neglected that it can be attributed virtually all of the evils in our government that cause discontent.

This program of rights and duties is the spinal column of Americanism.

The program appeals to the fairness and sound judgment of all sane men and women, once it is clearly comprehended by them.

Such comprehension is usually a certainty when unnaturalized residents are drawn into the instruction classes in citizenship.

We do not complete our duty in the Americanization movement merely by valuing the necessary money to carry it on.

It is the further duty of every citizen who comes in contact with unnaturalized persons, to explain to them the advantages of citizenship, that it is a boon worth striving for.

It should be assumed that no person remains unnaturalized from choice, but rather because the atmosphere of citizenship is not always friendly to him.

Impress upon such men that a warm welcome awaits all new citizens. Extend help and sympathy so that no person can live in America without wanting to become a citizen.—N.E.A.

RATIFY! RATIFY!

The opposition to the treaty by a little coterie of wilful men in the United States senate is becoming very aggravating to the country. Senators Lodge, La Follette, Reed, Poindexter, Borah, Sherman, Gore and Johnson are opposing the best interests of the nation by their unreasonable opposition.

The wrangle over the treaty is blocking the progress of the nation's business. Time that should be devoted to the great problems of reconstruction is wasted in disgraceful contention over amendments and reservations; and as soon as one set of reservations is voted down another is advanced solely for the purpose of delaying or even preventing ratification of the treaty.

The administration is willing to compromise on reservations that will not destroy the covenant of the League of Nations, but rabid hatred for President Wilson apparently is the chief motive for most of the opposition. Most of all the terrible things predicted for this nation if we enter the League of Nations, have their origin in the lively imagination of the senators and are not justified by anything in the covenant which leaves the door open for members to retire if they find that the league does not serve the purpose intended or if it is unfair to any nation or set of nations.

The treaty should be ratified forthwith so that congress may give its entire attention to the railroad question, the merchant marine and various other matters of vital importance now awaiting its attention.

CARSONIAN HOME RULE

Again the British ministry is moved to propose a form of local self-government for Ireland and this time it is Mr. Carson who is taken into conference to advise the ministry what form of home rule Ireland should get.

As might be expected, the plan is thoroughly Carsonian. Ireland is to be divided into two parts, Ulster and the other provinces, and according to the presumption of Mr. Carson and Prime Minister George, the greater of these is Ulster. A portion of Ulster is to have a parliament of its own and the other three provinces are also to have a parliament, while there will be some sort of national council representing all of Ireland and so arranged that it will be under the domination of Ulster.

Nothing so contemptibly unfair and partisan has been proposed at any time in the past by anybody as a solution for the Irish question. It is condemned even by Sir Horace Plunkett, who believes that the people of Ireland are not divided along religious lines and should not be so divided by acts of parliament. Plunkett has been suspected of being in sympathy with the government on various matters, but in this, he expresses the opinion of every patriotic Irishman. The people who want to see Ireland elevated to a self-governing nation, will never approve any partition of the country on religious lines. Carson and his followers, backed by the British government, are the only ones who favor such a solution.

The aim and object of this measure is to promote discord and factional strife in Ireland. It was by this means that British authority was maintained in Ireland through centuries, when a premium was set upon every form of traitorism to the country or its people.

The man who was mean enough to betray his father, his brother or his mother, his neighbor or his friend was rewarded and honored by the British government. The form of home rule now proposed would set the Irish people before the world as a lot of factionists, keeping up religious strife and hating one another for the love of God. The men who try thus to misrepresent Ireland are disseminating infamous lies. The people of Ireland, north, south, east and west, Catholic, Protestant, conformist and non-conformist would live in peace and harmony but for the interference of British politicians, whose sole aim is to promote dissension and strife and set one class of people against another in order that there may be some plausible excuse for the refusal to grant justice in the form of real local self-government. When England extends majority rule to Ireland same as she does to Canada, Australia and South Africa, she may be credited with some honesty of purpose.

The friends of Ireland would prefer to see the island submerged in the sea, rather than accept Carson's plan of disintegrating the nation and disgracing the people by division on sectional lines. If this is all that Premier Lloyd George can offer, he may keep it. It will never be accepted. Better wait until the liberals return to power and until the labor forces assert their influence in the imperial councils. Then, if not before, will Ireland be conceded at least the consideration extended to South Africa. Meantime the fight for Irish freedom will go on and will be carried into the British colonies to Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and India, several of which will soon be as insistent upon political independence as is Ireland today.

SLICING THE COMMON

The Boston public common, probably the largest vacant space in the heart of any American city, is soon to be pared down to allow city, with dissension in the ranks, has finally yielded to insistent argument that the city needs more space for those two busy streets. The concession is limited, however, for the society stipulates that it will allow this slicing, but "never again must its sacred precincts be unmarred."

We venture to say that a day will dawn which will see the extensive common cut down considerably to allow for natural business expansion. For a city of Boston's size, its retail trade already is excessively cramped and limited to parts of three streets, Washington from Adams Square to Boylston; Tremont from School to Boylston and Boylston from Washington to Copley Square. The day may come when the common side of Boylston and Tremont streets will be lined with buildings and the common itself cut down to a size only to allow for its continuance as a front lawn to the state house.

The discussion of slicing the common to accommodate Tremont and Boylston streets, by the way, has brought out the fact that 43 feet has come to be the acknowledged scientific width for a business passageway as it allows for four streams of traffic, two going in either direction. Judging from that, Lowell evidently is hardly in the scientific class.

Perhaps one of the most amusing suggestions for the solution of Boston's traffic problem, has been offered by a Mrs. Allen of Shirley, who would have all motor vehicles left on the outskirts of the city and their occupants walk into town. That should work out to perfection in Mrs. Allen's home village. And then again, perhaps the good people of Shirley find it hard to accustom themselves to Boston's bustle on their yearly pilgrimages and that they desire peace and safety of the kind they have at home.

TO AMERICANIZE ALIENS

As a result of investigations in connection with the steel strike, Senator Walsh of Massachusetts has come to the conclusion that it is absolutely necessary to enact a law to make it compulsory upon aliens everywhere between the ages of 16 and 45 to learn to read and write. He has framed a bill with this purpose in view, and providing further, that aliens who remain here for five years without making any attempt to become naturalized shall be deported.

As Senator Kenyon is chairman of the committee that investigated the strike, the measure will be named after him, but it is not to be confounded with the other Kenyon bill directed at the monopolistic features of the Chicago packing business.

The committee, it is understood, found a very alarming state of affairs in some of the steel-working districts, where, it is alleged, colonies of aliens, numbering in some cases 20,000 lived as if in a foreign land, using their own language and following out their alien customs wholly regardless and probably entirely ignorant of the principles of American liberty and government. Senator Walsh does not over-state the case when he says that this state of affairs is a menace to the nation. His plan is to provide schools where these people will be taught at government expense and obliged to learn to read and write in English. It is believed that if aliens speak our language and learn something about our government they will not be so easily misled by the professional agitators nor become such ready adherents of the advocates of socialistic doctrines and soviet governments.

A temporary appropriation will be made in order to get the work started, but it is estimated that the sum of $12,000,000 will be required annually to meet the expenses incurred by the federal government, while each state will be required to pay a fair proportion of the amount so expended within its limits. It is plain that a large proportion of this work will have to be done in Pennsylvania, Ohio and a few other states in which coal mining and iron works are the leading industries.

It is found that there are 8,000,000 people in this country over school age who cannot read or write, and one of the aims of the Kenyon bill will be to reduce the number of illiterates as far as possible. To carry out this enterprise to the fullest extent, will require considerable work in the southern states which contribute largely to the total number of illiterates.

A man from the north of Scotland was on holiday in Glasgow. On Sunday evening he was walking along Argyle street when he came upon a contingent of the Salvation Army, and a collection bag was thrust in front of his nose. He dropped a penny into it.

Turning up Queen street, he encountered another contingent of the Salvation Army, and again a smiling "lass" held a collection bag in front of him.

"Na, na!" he said, "I gied a penny to a squad o' your folk aroon' the corner just the noo."

"Really?" said the lass. "That was very good of you. But, then you can't do a good thing too often. And besides, you know, the Lord will repay you a hundredfold."

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Although the snowstorm which we had here in Lowell the first part of the week did not remain long enough to make a lasting impression on the landscapes hereabouts, nevertheless one can see snow from Lowell if he chooses the proper point of vantage. Away up in the northern part of the state or perhaps it is over the New Hampshire boundary line the hills and mountains have their coating of white. I noticed it a few days ago for the first time and thought perhaps that it was merely a temporary affair and that the snow would vanish within a short time. But it is still there, clearly evident from the upper stories of The Sun building. The sky has been clearer off in that direction for the past few days than it has been here in Lowell and the sun shining on the snow high up in the hills makes an unusually pretty picture as viewed from a distance. But intermingled with the aesthetic appeal of the scene is the realization that what is now at a distance will soon be a surrounding reality.

Yesterday noon I had luncheon downtown. Of course this is of no interest to the public, for who cares whether I have luncheon or not. But the conversation I heard while eating might be of interest to many, particularly those who have been and are still running short of sugar, for the little talk between two prominent business men had to do with the trouble in getting sugar. RESERVATIONS TO PEACE TREATY

First of Foreign Relations Committee Reservations
Before Senate Today

Reservation Preamble Which President Called "Very Embarrassing" Passed

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The first of the foreign relations committee reservations to the peace treaty was before the senate today and a vote without prolonged discussion was expected. Should the senate dispose of the first reservation before adjournment, consideration of the second reservation, which deals with article 10 of the treaty, will begin.

The second reservation was expected to produce exhaustive debate as article 10 has been attacked severely by treaty opponents. Under the leadership of Senators Borah, Idaho and Johnson, California, both republicans, the so-called irreconcilable group of opponents, it was said, will support a resolution which would make the second reservation more stringent and likely cause breaks in the ranks of both republicans and democrats.

The first reservation on the calendar for action when the senate convened, follows:

"The United States so understands and construes article 1 that in case of notice of withdrawal from the League of Nations as provided in said article, the United States shall be the sole judge as to whether all its international obligations and all its obligations under the said covenant have been fulfilled and notice of withdrawal by the United States may be given by a concurrent resolution of the congress of the United States."

Senator Thomas, democrat, Colorado, has pending a motion that the senate strike out of the first reservation the last 22 words "and notice of withdrawal by the United States may be given by a concurrent resolution of the congress of the United States."

At yesterday's session the senate adopted the reservation preamble which President Wilson described as "very embarrassing" and the vote of 48 to 40 showed the first solid alignment of republican senators including the mild reservationists and irreconcilable groups since the treaty fight opened.

The roll call on the preamble was as follows:

For adoption:
Republicans—Borah, Brandegee, Calder, Capper, Colt, Cummins, Curtis, Dillingham, Edge, Elkins, Fair, Fernald, France, Frelinghuysen, Gronna, Hale, Harding, Johnson, of California, Jones, of Washington, Kellogg, Kenyon, Keyes, Knox, La Follette, Lenroot, Lodge, McCormick, McLean, McNary, Moses, Nelson, New, Newberry, Norris, Page, Phipps, Potemkin, Sherman, Smoot, Spencer, Sterling, Townsend, Wadsworth and Watson. LEGISLATURE TO HOLD SPECIAL SESSION

(Special to The Sun)
STATE HOUSE, Boston, November 8.—The special session of the Massachusetts legislature will convene Tuesday, November 12. Official announcement of this date will be made next Wednesday, following the regular weekly meeting of the governor's council, which must approve the call. While it will be within the power of the legislature to consider any legislation its members may see fit, it is probable that none but emergency matters will be taken up. There is reason to believe that Governor Cochrane, in his call for the special session, will suggest that this restriction be adopted, and it is probable that an order to that effect will be adopted soon after the session convenes.

Foremost among the measures, to be considered is the report of the special commission on street railways, which will recommend measures of relief for the Boston Elevated, the former Bay State system, and for street railways generally. It has not yet been finally determined whether the commission will have the courage of its convictions and report the "anti-strike" bill which it has been considering, but publication of the essential features of the bill has brought to the commission a considerable number of endorsements of the proposal, as well as a declaration from labor leaders that they will ignore such legislation if it is passed. Second, in general interest, will be legislation authorizing better pay for school teachers in certain cities, including Boston. So widespread has been the demand for legislation of this sort that it is entirely probable that two bills will be passed, one dealing with Boston alone, and the other making financial arrangements by which any city or town may increase its present stipends to teachers. Then there is necessity for passage of legislation providing for compensation of members of the state guard (or duty in Boston since the police walkout). With the overwhelming reputation of Long, the policeman's friend, at the polls last Tuesday, and yesterday's decision of Justice Carroll of the supreme court denying their petition for reinstatement, it is probable that they will now cease their obstructive tactics and permit the new police force to be organized without further delay. If this proves the case, it is likely that the guardsmen now on duty will soon be permitted to return to their homes, and the expenditures on their account will cease, but the bills already accumulated will be found to amount to no small figure. There have been rumors to the effect that an attempt will be made at the special session to pass legislation providing for a return to the convention system of making party nominations, at least for officers on the state ticket, so-called. But inasmuch as such legislation would be of no value until next fall anyway, it does not conform to the requirement that only emergency matters shall be considered at the special session, and it is probable that the legislature will insist that it be postponed until the regular session convenes in January. HOYT.

NEWS OF THE DAY IN POLICE COURT

Charged with assault with intent to murder upon Goon Juen (the waiter at the Canton restaurant who was stabbed during an altercation in the restaurant kitchen on the night of Sept. 17, Wong Loy, employed as cook at the same establishment, was arraigned on continuance in police court today. In view of the fact that the victim of the stabbing affray is still in the hospital, a further continuance was ordered until Nov. 18, bail remaining at $500. Loy pleaded not guilty, claiming that the stabbing was purely accidental.

Harry Springman of Tewksbury pleaded not guilty to assault and battery on William B. Davenport of that town on the evening of Oct. 31, and had his case continued until Monday. The police allege that Springman celebrated Halloween night by stretching a rope across a piazza and that Davenport was tripped up and bruised by the fall.

LAFALOT CLUB DANCE
The Lafalot club entertained 100 couples at a brilliant dancing party last evening in Highland club hall. The music was ideal, the hall decorations extremely well arranged and the spirit of the affair left nothing to be desired. From a network of wires stretched across the hall were hung red and yellow paper streamers, while bright colored toy balloons floated above them. Autumn colors and foliage barked the side walls and the electric light bulbs were covered with red crepe paper to allow a soft glow to settle over the hall. Campbell's Band orchestra played and Caterer Harvey served luncheon during intermission. The members of the Lafalot club, are members of the office force at the Lanson company.

PAY OF SCHOOL TEACHERS

Public Sale of the Attractive Modern Residence
Sited in the Highlands at 55 Victoria Street
SATURDAY AFTERNOON, NOV. 15, 3 P. M.
On the premises on the day and hour above mentioned will be offered at public sale this exceptionally desirable residential property. The location is one of the best in the entire city, being strictly residential and easily accessible to both the Highlands and Chelmsford street car lines. The surrounding residences are comparatively new and of the highest class. The lot is large and open, being somewhat in excess of 5,000 square feet. The house is full two and one-half story and is in "Queen Anne" style. The rooms are eight in number. On the first floor is an exceptionally pleasant kitchen, dining room, living room and front room, as well as a handsome reception hall. There are four comfortable chambers and bath on the second floor and an attic space over all. The house is equipped with furnace heat, soap stone set wash trays and hot water. The plumbing throughout is open and of the most modern type. The floors are of polished hard wood in part. The general construction is of the highest order.
Herein is presented a most unusual opportunity, as there are no residences of this character available for purchase in the entire city and not for some years past has there been one offered at public sale.
TERMS: $400 to be deposited with or secured to the auctioneer as soon as property is struck off. Other terms at sale.

RAYMOND J. LAVELLE OPENS LAW OFFICE

Raymond J. Lavelle, who was admitted to the Massachusetts bar several months ago, has opened his law office and is now engaged in the practice of his profession at 330 Hill-dreth building.

RAYMOND J. LAVELLE

Mr. Lavelle attended Holy Cross Prep. school and college, graduating with honors and a degree of A.B. At Holy Cross he received the rating of a Normal school graduate as the result of specialization in pedagogy, an elective course of study for students contemplating teaching as a profession. He then became a member of The Sun advertising staff, in which capacity he became well known throughout the city. Mr. Lavelle obtained his legal education at Northeastern College of Law, attending the entire course with the exception of the time he spent in the army during the world war. Last June he took the examination for admission to the Massachusetts bar and was admitted several months ago. At Northeastern college he maintained his scholastic excellence by being awarded a degree of LL.B. Mr. Lavelle has just announced his candidacy for the school committee.

SALES BY JAMES H. BOYLE
James H. Boyle, real estate office at 61 Central street, reports the following sales for the week ending Nov. 7:
Final paper have been put on record for the sale of a three-tenement house with modern improvements, and one cottage house situated at 77-83 West Sixth street. These were sold for Annie Strauchan to John J. Riley, who bought for home and investment.
Final papers have been put on record in the sale of a two-tenement house and one cottage situated at 151 Coburn street. This sale was made for Ann Fuchin. The purchaser was Ellen J. Toohy, who bought for home and investment.
The sale of a two-apartment house, situated at 167-169 Warren street, the grantor being Ernestine Grunette of Lawrence, the grantee a Lowell man.
The sale of a large tract of land situated on Pleasant street in Dorchester, the grantor being Katherine P. O'Donnell of Lowell.

HIT BY AUTOMOBILE
Raymond Devine, aged 11 years and residing at 135 Moody street, sustained a fracture of the leg last evening when he was struck by an automobile in Merrimack street near city hall. The car is owned and was operated by Geo. W. Travers of Nashua, N. H., who claims the boy darted from the rear of a machine that was standing in the street and when in the middle of the street he changed his mind and endeavored to turn back and was struck by the automobile. He was treated at the Lowell Corporation hospital.

COMFORT STATION PLANS
Plans drawn by Architect Henry J. Bourke for a new comfort station on the South common were accepted last evening by the park commission at its regular monthly meeting. The new station will be located just beyond the head of the new wading pool and will measure 34 by 25½ feet. It will be one story in height with tile roof and stucco exterior finish and will be divided into two sections, each with its own entrance.

NASAL CATARRH

Though Very Common It is a Serious Disease—Worse at This Season.
It is an inflammation of the mucous membrane, causing a discharge, and is aggravated by colds and sudden changes of weather, but depends on an impure condition of the blood. When chronic it may develop into consumption by breaking down the delicate lung tissues and impairing the general health.
Begin treatment with Hood's Sarsaparilla at once. This medicine purifies the blood, removes the cause of the disease, and gives permanent relief. It has been entirely satisfactory to three generations.
If a cathartic is needed take Hood's pills—they are gentle and thorough, cleanse the liver, regulate the bowels.

Teachers Indignant

flag for England and the United States to be an intermingling of, both the present flags representing the two nations as one. He said the people of this country should love England very dearly for all she has done for us through her system of civilization. He also stated that American history has not been properly written nor properly taught so far as it bears upon England's treatment of the colonies and her policies of government.
Another speaker of the same type is reported to have told the teachers that our republic is not yet 150 years old and that 150 years hence it may have passed out of existence unless it united with England in spreading Anglo-Saxon civilization throughout the world.

It will be remembered that the British consul general recently presented a Normal school at Providence a British flag as a token of England's friendship and civilization. At that meeting one teacher had the tact to enter a protest by saying that the stars and stripes, the flag of Betsy Ross, is good enough for American teachers.

Even our contribution to the victory won in the world war was belittled by one of the speakers at the Middlesex county convention when he said that it was easy for the American forces to go in and win a victory over the German rabble after all the best men had been killed off by the British forces. He also extolled the work of the British navy.

Another British speaker, a member of parliament, preached an anarchistic system of teaching which if put into effect would utterly destroy parental authority and eventually overthrow our republican form of government and the principles of democracy upon which it is based. In glowing eloquence he said: "Give us the young and we will make a new mind and a new earth in one generation." He did not indicate to what people he referred when he used the pronoun "us," and nobody asked him what kind of a new earth he proposed if he had control of the child mind.

The American people are not ready to submit their children to the British propagandists to be trained in Anglo-Saxon principles, nor are they willing to have their teachers influenced by this invasion of British propagandists. The question among the local teachers and public generally is, by whom

The latter reported that 21 classes were now organized for non-English speaking people and that the total registration was more than 400.

Federal Judge Doubts Validity of War Time Prohibition Act

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Doubt as to the validity of the war time
prohibition law, was expressed here today by Federal Judge Learned Hand. He voiced his opinion during argument on a motion to vacate an injunction classifying the Eastern Hotel as a "public nuisance" under the Volstead act. The injunction was obtained by the government after an arrest for the violation of the Volstead act had been made in a barroom on the company's property, less than four hours after the act became effective.

FIGHTS ON IN CITY POLITICS

Many Candidates for Mayor

Taken Out Their Papers

Echoes of the State Campaign and the Voting
Registration in Order

With the close of the state campaign and the election of officials to serve at the state house next year,
Lowell voters now turn their attention to the local political arena. No
such hiatus as ensued between the
state primaries and the state election
will occur between the city primaries and the final election and for that reason the campaign will necessarily be brief and lively.

The preliminary city election or city
primaries will be held one week from next Tuesday, Nov. 13. The final city election will take place three weeks
later, Dec. 9.

The defeat of Plan B last Tuesday
has cleared the atmosphere of a lot of uncertainty regarding the details of
city political affairs and now the stage
is set for action on the part of the candidates. Twenty-five or more of them have announced their intention

countries previously mentioned, are now touring a group of American
United States chamber of commerce.

They will be in Boston, on Nov. 19

NO BUTTON DAY FOR RED CROSS

Lack of Time Causes American Legion Members to Abandon Their Plans

Selling Booth Does Thriving
Business and Roll Call
Workers Active

The button day which was to have been the feature of the Red Cross roll
call campaign in the city today did
not materialize because of the lack of sufficient time given the American Legion members to prepare a systematic method of canvassing and to enlist enough men for the work. It was an 11th hour suggestion at best and officers of Lowell post said today that the time was entirely inadequate.

It had been planned to turn over
the canvassing to the legion and to allow service men to sell the Red Cross
buttons and memberships on the streets
during the day and evening. A special meeting of the legion post was called for last night to make the plans for the assignment of routes, etc., but there were only a dozen members present and nothing definite was done. Until noon time today only one man had called at the Community club to offer his services as a canvasser.

A Perfect Day Lost
It is to be regretted that this contingency could not have been foreseen,
for the Pawtucketville residents, who previously had planned to conduct a tag day today in the interests of its welcome home celebration, withdrew
at the suggestion of Mayor Thompson
so as not to interfere in the least with
the Red Cross plans. The fine weather
brought out thousands of people
during the afternoon, an ideal opportunity for soliciting for a worthy cause.

The Red Cross booth in the Chalfout
store, in charge of Miss Barbara Martin, did a thriving business. Assisting were Miss Leslie Hyman, Miss Mary Holden, Miss Mildred Tienis and Miss Talbot, and all reported that the memberships were easy to obtain and that
all persons approached were anxious
to give $1 toward the work.

At an enthusiastic meeting of team
workers and the membership executive committee last night at St. Anne's parish house it was announced that more than 4500 Lowell men and women have joined the North Middlesex
chapter during the campaign so far.
This was only the report, but it was
far from complete, for none of the manufacturing plants have been heard
from, or have many of the stores.

By Monday night the workers hope
that the enrollment will be in excess
of 20,000 and it is safe to say that the half way mark has been reached
and passed, if it were possible at this time to give an accurate report on
the entire work. Many organizations
and firms have reached their 100 per cent. totals and among the ones announced last night were: Lowell fire department, Lowell water works department, C. M. Holmes company, Locks and Canals, E. W. Hoyt
company office, Harry Pitts' store,
Buick Motor company, Dana's garage,
city hall employees, United States
Mailing Case company and the C. F.
Hatch company. It was learned this morning that the J. L. Chalfout company has enlisted its entire personnel and other firms are well on the way.

Fine Results in Highlands
The highest team total reported last night came from Mrs. Edward Hyman,
whose corps of workers have obtained
329 members in the Highlands section of the city. Capt. P. F. Hayward of Team 1 collected a total of 527 memberships and a money total of $511.
The executive committee also announced a gift of $100 from Mary G.
Morrison.

Following a substantial supper the business meeting was opened by Chairman Paul B. Chandler, who urged redoubled activity in the few days remaining. He introduced as the first

Court Orders Union Officers to Call off Coal Strike Before November 11

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 8.—The United Mine Workers of America were today ordered to withdraw the strike order under which 400,000 men quit work Nov. 1. The mandate was issued by Judge A. B. Anderson of the United States district court, after a hearing in which the union attorney fought vainly for a chance to present arguments on the right to strike.

The union was given until Nov. 11 at 6 p. m., to issue the cancellation.
This date was selected because so many defendants were absent. The union attorneys explained the absences must be summoned by telegraph from many parts of the country to issue the cancellation order.

The attorneys announced that President Lewis and Secretary Green of the union purposed obeying the court order, but that they could not speak for their fellow officials.

BRIEF BUT IMPORTANT WIRE DESPATCHES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Cotton

6,273,865 running bales, including 70,594 round bales, 14,081 bales of American-Egyptian and 3306 bales of Sea Island, the census bureau announced today.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 8.—Yale was twice a victor over Harvard in cross country running today, the Varsity team scoring 62 to 15 points, and the freshmen beating the Harvard youngsters 33 to 22.

LONDON, Friday, Nov. 7.—Exports of silver bullion specie has been prohibited.

LONDON, Friday, Nov. 7.—There were 10,177 bales offered at the wool auction sales today. Fine grades were firm. Cape of Good Hope and Natal sold from 10 to 15 per cent. over the last sales.

"RED" HEADQUARTERS IN NATION'S CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Activities of the Union of Russian Workers have been conducted in the nation's capital.
This became known today when it leaked out that agents of the department of justice had made nine arrests last night in connection with the nation-wide raid against the leaders of this union. It is understood that five of the prisoners were released after proving their citizenship.

CADILLAC PRESIDENT LOOKS INTO FUTURE

"One of the reasons why so many people are disappointed in getting the things they want and need, is that they do not prepare," said R. H. Collins, president of the Cadillac Motor Car Co., in discussing the motor car outlook for 1920. "The fact that I knew I would want a rifle in November, caused me to order it last spring. As a result, I was not disappointed. I got the rifle when I wanted it."

"Neither the Cadillac company nor its distributors want to be placed in the position of disappointing so many people as were unable to provide themselves with our cars this year."

"It may be remembered that a year ago, immediately following the armistice, this company announced that it would resume normal production of motor cars as rapidly as conditions would permit. At the same time, we expressed our belief that it would not be possible to build in 1919 all the Cadillac cars the world would want."

"The prediction was well founded, as many people can testify. During the last few months our distributors have been compelled to decline many orders for motor cars, simply because the forehand buyers had already placed orders sufficient to absorb the year's production."

"It appears now to be reasonably certain that the same conditions will obtain next year. Undoubtedly the Cadillac's war record has measurably heightened the public's appreciation of the car, which means that the Cadillac market is much wider than heretofore—and even before the war it never was fully supplied. We can do no more than present the facts as we see them."

Child Almost Dead Grandmother Saves Life

Roxbury, Mass. A grandmother in Roxbury writes: "I put great faith in your medicine, and one of my children was dying. The doctor said she could not live until morning and I ran out to the drug store, got a bottle of Dr. Truett's Elixir, was so excited I gave her the half of the bottle at once, and in half an hour she was better. I gave her the other half and she was all right. I thought it either kill or cure for the doctor says she is dying anyway, but she did not die. She went to sleep, the first sleep she had in three days. She passed two worms, red in color, six inches long. The doctor came to see if she was dead, but he ran out pretty quick, as she was sitting in her chair eating a bowl of oatmeal and milk. That was twenty-four years ago, and now she has a baby girl of her own, seven months old, who is also using Dr. Truett's Elixir." (Name on request.)

"Constipation, headaches, tired feeling, weakness, spots before the eyes, bad breath, sleeplessness, and worms in children—many other signs of sickness, can be relieved, if you take the prescription known as Dr. Truett's Elixir. The Elixir is a powerful laxative and it is done much for sick people, men, women and children, ever since 1851—over 65 years reputation."

Well, We Fly

Sunday

PITTS' AERIAL OUTING WILL BE HELD AT SHATTUCK FARM

(Weather Permitting)

All the features of the day as originally planned will be carried out. Every employe of Pitts will get off the ground (if he so desires) as the guest of the boss. That goes for the girls as well, and they are strong for the flying game. Watch out and you may catch the Pitts force up in the air for the first time. And they'll admit it.

MORE TROLLEY AND JITNEY TROUBLE

Unless jitney licenses between North Chelmsford and Lowell are suspended the electric cars will not operate between Stevens' corner and Woods' corner in North Chelmsford. Such is the decision of the trustees of the Eastern Massachusetts Railway Co. and notice to that effect has been sent to the board of selectmen of the town. The company claims that the poorest paying portion of their road in the village is between Stevens' corner and Woods' corner and if jitney competition is to continue there will be no profit for the railroad company in running cars beyond Stevens' corner.

It will be remembered that some time ago the trustees of the road threatened to discontinue the line between North Chelmsford and Tyngsboro unless the town of Tyngsboro came across with a certain sum of money for repairs to the road, which were badly needed. As a result a special town meeting was held and it was voted to retain the Tyngsboro service. It is claimed that at that time although there was no mention of it at the meeting, the action of the Tyngsboro citizens was conditional upon the adoption of the jitney act by the town of Chelmsford, for most of the names on the petition to the Eastern Massachusetts Railway Co. for the retention of the line were those of residents of North Chelmsford.

The trustees of the road claim that prior to the special town meeting in Tyngsboro they sent a letter to the board of selectmen of that town stipulating that the line would be continued providing the town showed a willingness to co-operate with the company by appropriating the amount of money allowed by law, and providing also that the town of Chelmsford adopt the 1910 act of the legislature regulating jitney traffic. The citizens of Tyngsboro deny this, however, and declare there was no such stipulation mentioned. In view of the unexpected development there is a possibility that the selectmen of Chelmsford will be petitioned to call a special meeting to take action on the matter.

PATRIOTIC SERVICE TOMORROW EVENING

A very attractive and patriotic service will be held at the First Congregational church tomorrow evening at 8.30 when a large number of ex-servicemen of both the army and navy will attend in a body. With Armistice Day only a few days distant, this unique patriotic rally will hold a special attraction for everybody, particularly those men who saw service in the recent war.

Mayor Thompson will speak and a chorus of more than 200 will sing popular war songs and Mrs. Roberts will sing a solo. All the ex-servicemen are urged to attend this service in uniform. The Boy Scouts and the Girl Scouts will also come in uniform.

The Rev. Chas. J. Hawkins will speak, the subject of his talk being "A Year Later."

LADD AND WHITNEY CIRCLE

At a recent meeting of Ladd and Whitney circle, No. 5, Ladies of the G.A.R. the annual inspection of the circle took place. There was a large attendance and present also were: President Mrs. Amy Schurman, Dept. Junior Vice President Mrs. H. White, Dept. Vice President Mrs. Brackett, Dept. Sec. Mrs. Emma Vesey, and guests from Lawrence and Malden. The circle has accepted an invitation to attend the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Davis on Nov. 14 at their home in Wilder street.

In the early part of the evening supper was served by Mrs. Fanny Hovey assisted by the matrons, Mrs. Blaisdell and Mrs. Bryant.

LOWELL HOLDS WOBURN

High School Eleven Shows Excellent Form in Game Which Ends 7 to 7

The Lowell high school football team showed a surprising reversal of form yesterday afternoon when Woburn high was held to a 7 to 7 tie at Spalding park. The score hardly indicates the respective merits of the eleven, for throughout the game Lowell showed a line-splitting attack of considerable power and lost away scoring opportunities because of faulty judgment and lack of resourcefulness.

The work of the local team was at least 50 per cent. better than in any previous game of the season and the contest brought into the spotlight one of the best hitting halfbacks who opened up the Woburn line from tackle to tackle and but seldom failed to register gains varying from 5 to 10 yards whenever called upon to carry the ball. His playing was the outstanding feature of the game and brought real joy to the heart of Coach Conway, who has been looking for a dependable line-plugging back all season. This boy, Trull, hit hard, swift and low and the Woburn line-men turned over the job of stopping him to the secondary defense.

First Period

The game started with Woburn kicking off to O'Hare, who brought the ball in as far as the 25 yard line before being thrown. From that point to Woburn's 15 yard line the Lowell team carried the ball without the slightest sign of hesitation. Trull, Liston and Conway were driven hard by O'Hare, who kicked off the first downs with beautiful precision. The Woburn defense stiffened, however, as the ball advanced into its danger zone and although Trull plunged through for a first down on the 15 yard mark, it was tough going and a moment later when O'Hare switched over to a forward pass in an effort to continue the march to the goal line, the Lowell back who held the ball was snared for a 10 yard loss before he could toss it.

It was O'Hare's first technical blunder and it cost a touchdown. When he saw the Woburn line stiffening he should have run his plays wider instead of trying to slide them all through the tackle-guard hole on the right hand side. Woburn saw that the Lowell defense showed no intention to switch his attack, so plugged up the hole and stopped the advance.

Woburn punted out of danger, but Lowell soon surrendered the ball once more on downs near the middle of the field. O'Hare decided to make the attempt to gain his distance rather than punt. That was another slip-up. Lowell recovered a Woburn fumble just as the quarter ended.

Second Period

From the 10 yard line O'Hare drove his team into the shadow of the Woburn goal posts only to be stopped at the 3 yard line by a sturdy defense. Rice punted from behind the line and O'Hare gathered in the egg on the 5 yard mark. Back to the line-plugging game went the Lowell leader, but happily shifted his play on the 25 yard line when he will run back, whirling and shot a perfect forward pass to Conway who fought his way over the line for a touchdown. O'Hare kicked the goal from a difficult angle.

The half ended shortly after Woburn kicked off. Score: Lowell 7, Woburn 7.

Third Period

Failure on O'Hare's part to play the game safe cost Lowell the game in the third quarter. Following the Woburn kickoff, Lowell hammered the line to her own 45 yard line. It was fourth down with three yards to go, but O'Hare would not punt and failed in his attempt to gain the necessary yardage. From this point Woburn started an offensive which did not stop until a touchdown had been registered. The score was rather fluky, inasmuch as a Woburn back fumbled the ball in the last charge from the 5 yard

DEATHS

TATSOOS—James, infant son of George and Anna Tatsoos, died yesterday at the home of his parents, 14 Flood avenue. The body was taken to the chapel of Undertaker James F. O'Donnell & Sons.

CHAMBERLIN—Warren B. Chamberlin died Thursday in Carlisle, aged 65 years. He leaves his wife, Elizabeth D. Chamberlin.

CORLISS—Died, Nov. 8, in this city, Amos L. Corliss, aged 78 years, 7 mos., 24 days, at his home, 9 Methuen st. He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Alden B. Halsey, and two grandchildren, Clifton Corliss Halsey and Karl Alden Halsey. Mr. Corliss was a member of William North lodge, A.F. and A.M. Oberlin lodge, I.O.O.F., and Pilgrim Encampment, I.O.E.F.

WOBURN—The many friends of Albert Bolduc, aged 35 years, a well known resident of this city, will be grieved to learn of his death, which occurred yesterday at the Lowell Corporation hospital, as a result of an operation for an abscess in the stomach. Mr. Bolduc had not been feeling well for the past two or three weeks, and although he was not working, he was able to be around. Last Sunday he was removed to the hospital, where he was operated upon Wednesday. Deceased, who for some time was employed as a wine clerk in the wholesale store of L. P. L. Turcotte in Merrimack street, was well and favorably known in this city, where he had lived practically all his life. During the war he was employed at the Hibernia Electric Co. He was a prominent member of the C.M.A.C., Lowell Aerie of Eagles, Branch Pawtucketville, A.C.F., and La Reussie Nationale de Benefices. He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, Mrs. Rose Anna Smith Bolduc, an aunt, Mrs. Louise Legare, and three uncles in Canada. The body was removed to his home, 537 North Main st., by Undertakers Amos A. Archambault & Sons.

VERDICT FOR PLAINTIFF

The jury in the case of Louis and Leandre Marlon vs. Cella Desmarais, an action of contract, which was tried at the civil session of the superior court and which was brought to a close yesterday morning, returned a verdict for the plaintiff late yesterday afternoon in the sum of $317.50. In this case the plaintiffs sought to recover a sum of money, alleged to be due them for the erection of two houses for the defendant, H. V. Charbonneau appeared for the plaintiffs and Qua, Howard & Rogers for the defendant.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Nov. 8.—Determined to run "organizers out of town," it is said a committee of business men of the city has given two labor organizers until 5 o'clock this afternoon to leave Johnstown. Meanwhile the city is quiet, but the committee is on the alert and "ready to take further action" unless the organizers comply with the request, it is stated. The organizers are T. J. Conboy of the steel workers' union and Dominick Gelotte of the United Mine Workers. Both were requested last night by the committee to leave the city after William Z. Foster, secretary of the national steel strike committee, was forced to leave Johnstown where he was scheduled to speak before steel strikers. Conboy was given until 5 p. m. today to arrange his affairs upon his assent to comply with the request.

Mr. Foster is at Altoona, Pa., where he is to address steel strikers today. The business men's committee of Johnstown was formed two weeks ago to take what action it could relative to the coal and steel strike situation here. It includes H. L. Tredonick, president of the Chamber of Commerce and W. R. Lank, secretary of the Y.M.C.A.

Hoover to Deliver Lecture

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 8.—Herbert C. Hoover, has accepted the invitation extended him to deliver the Dodge lectures on "Responsibilities of Citizenship" during the next university year. Mr. Hoover, a graduate of Leland Stanford Junior University, was given the honorary degree of doctor of laws by Yale in 1918.

32 Places Accept Double Platoon

BOSTON, Nov. 8.—The two platoon system for fire departments was accepted by 32 cities and towns, and rejected by six, in the slate election of Tuesday. Official figures of the vote in the 38 places which voted on the question of adopting the legislative referendum on the subject were announced today. Boston, Newton, Brookline, Melrose, Malden and Beverly rejected the proposal.

Favor Ratification of Prohibition

COLUMBUS, Nov. 8.—Complete official returns from 73 of the 88 counties and complete unofficial returns from the remaining 15 counties, with the exception of seven missing precincts in two dry counties, as compiled shortly before noon today, at the office of secretary of state, gave the drys a majority of 859 in favor of ratification of the federal prohibition amendment.

Deport Aliens Caught in "Red" Raids

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Deportation of all aliens engaged in "red" activities has been determined upon by the department of justice, Attorney General Palmer announced today. Details of the widespread clean-up of radicals last night and today show that more than 200 were arrested in 18 cities. Mr. Palmer has asked the department of labor to deport all of them. Agents of the department of justice and the bureau of immigration have been collecting evidence in these particular cases for two months, Mr. Palmer said. Practically all of those arrested were Russians. Included among the material and literature seized by government agents in the raid were quantities of articles used in making bombs, a complete counterfeiting plant, a large supply of counterfeit banknotes, thousands of pieces of literature described as of the most inflammatory nature, and scores of red flags, rifles and revolvers.

In charge of Undertakers J. F. O'Donnell & Sons.

LOWELL DOCTOR TALKS ON TUBERCULOSIS

BOSTON, Nov. 8.—It has been pretty thoroughly proved that consumption is not hereditary, and that infants and children are not born with the germs of tuberculosis in them, but acquire them after birth from careless association with those of the family who have the disease or from being in a house that has not been thoroughly renovated after a tuberculosis patient has occupied it," said Dr. Charles E. Simpson of Lowell in his address on "The Control of Tuberculosis" in the Public Health series in the exhibition hall of the Jordan Marsh company annex yesterday afternoon.

Dr. Simpson is the state health officer of the North Middlesex district, and his experience with tuberculosis extends over many years.

"The tuberculosis problem," said he, "as it appears to the public health officer, divides itself into two distinct phases: the treatment of the patient and the protection of the public."

"Unless the physician warns a patient who has pulmonary tuberculosis, it cannot be expected that the immediate family and the public will be safeguarded properly, nor that the patient will pay close attention to the minor details that are so essential to his recovery."

"In the early cases if steps are taken as soon as the disease is discovered a large proportion of the cases will return to practically the same condition that they were in before the starting up of the active symptoms."

"Though practically all dusty trades have a tendency to irritate the membranes of the air passages and make them more susceptible to infection, the individual will not develop tuberculosis unless the special germ of that disease is present," continued Dr. Simpson.

"No case is absolutely hopeless, and the outlook in very early cases is exceedingly hopeful."

"To combat the spread of tuberculosis successfully we must have the co-operation of all in the community. We can try to have all milk pasteurized. All cases of tuberculosis in individuals should be reported at once and all suspected cases should be carefully examined. Other members of the family should be examined at least twice a year, and a nurse should be available for consultation with the family as to the best method of protecting themselves."

In closing the lecturer offered the following suggestions: "The patient should take great care to cover his mouth when coughing and should wash his hands frequently."

"He should have separate dishes and have them cleansed with boiling water. Sputum should be burned and all body discharges carefully cared for. Files should be killed. Kissing should be absolutely debarred. The patient should have a separate sleeping room, so situated as to have plenty of light and air."

"The house should be kept scrupulously clean, the floors and wood-work washed with soap and water as well as some strong antiseptic, well aired, and on removal of the patient it should be carefully renovated."

"If the patient is properly taught and carefully follows instructions, he is of practically no danger to the family or community, and he should in no way be made to feel the contrary. It is only in the case of some lapses in the care that frequent examinations of other members of the family are made."

"These examinations should be kept up for at least two years after the removal of the danger, as an infection is often slow in its manifestations."

"The fact that careful tests show that a very large proportion of the people at some time in their lives have been infected with tuberculosis, although not having the disease, shows that personal resistance is a very important factor in protection. For this reason we should avoid unusual and unnecessary drains on our system, and should at all times exercise strict personal hygiene and keep our bodies in the best possible condition."

SCRIBE GETS NEXT TO SOME HORSE SENSE

The old gray mare of storied fame may not be what she used to be—but she's not a back number yet.

This in spite of the fact that with the advent of the gas-driven flyver and flyverettes the demand for horses has decreased over 60 per cent in Lowell and elsewhere.

No; the horse may be going, but he—and she—have not gone. And they never will.

At least that's what Jerry thinks; and he surely ought to know.

Jerry has lived well onto a score of years in this queer old planet of ours. Years ago he was a cab-horse. Since the gas-buggy has done away with horse-drawn cabs and such he pulls a milk wagon. And you can take it from us, Jerry knows full well whereof he speaks.

Jerry can remember when his master had no difficulty in buying a pound of sugar in those good old days of yesterday. He can remember, can Jerry, when Mr. H.C.L. was totally unheard of and when a dollar was really good for something.

But to return to the question of whether the horse is on the way to oblivion or not. As aforesaid, Jerry doesn't think so.

"Take the case of a handsome, well-dressed woman," continued Jerry, shaking his head sadly. "Well, you see, when a lovely woman, arrayed in all the finery so dear to the feminine heart, gets into a limousine, she's completely shut off from the rest of the world. She can't display her beautiful clothes. But when she rides in a carriage behind a well groomed pair of horses—then all the world can give her the 'once over' and admire her charms."

"Years ago, when I was young," added Jerry, reminiscingly, "there must have been fully 2000 horses in use in Lowell. But today I doubt if you'll find more than 1500. All on account of the automobile. The majority of folks in this rapid-fire age prefer speed to comfort and they've sold their horses and bought machines."

"For five long years, I was afflicted with Stomach, Liver and Kidney Trouble, which developed into serious Bladder Trouble. During that time, I am safe in saying I tried over 60 different remedies without relief. I saw a testimonial of, I think, a Montreal man about 'Fruit-a-tives' and concluded to make one more trial. By the time the sample box was finished I found quite an improvement; and when I had finished a 50c. box, there was a grand improvement far beyond my expectations. To make a long story short, I believe 'Fruit-a-tives' or Fruit Liver Tablets the best Stomach, Liver and Bladder Medicine the world has ever produced."

business it has been found that an auto can do the work required much more efficiently than a horse, although many men in Lowell prefer a horse-drawn vehicle for short trips about the city on the grounds that it is cheaper.

"Lots of folks had much rather see a good horse race than an auto race," Jerry pointed out to us. "There's something about a horse race that thrills one more than any other kind of sport. At least that's what my master used to say before he died."

"Perhaps it's just as well he's gone, too," Jerry commented with a twinkle in his eye. "Not that he was over-unkind to me—far from it. But he used to enjoy a nice long drink of beer on a hot night and if he'd lived in these times of drought and 'half per cent' I don't think he would have felt that life was worth the living."

"No, I don't think the time will ever come when horses will not be seen on the streets of Lowell," Jerry declared emphatically in conclusion. "In fact I believe they'll be more numerous in another decade than they are today. Perhaps there won't be many used for heavy work, but you'll always find men and women who prefer a horse to a Packard—or an aeroplane—and who won't be satisfied with any substitute."

"Well, I guess I'll have to say 'good-by' for now," said Jerry, casting an appraising look at his boss who was just emerging from a near-by house. "Wonder if he has been trying to explain to the folks there why the price of milk is so high," whispered Jerry as he straightened up in preparation for his departure. "Lots of cows nowadays. Queer that milk should be so deegone expensive." And with that he was gone.

Maybe we'll see him again some time before he goes to the horses' happy hunting ground, where all good horses go. If we do, perhaps he can tell us who Lowell's next mayor will be. He's a wise old bird, is Jerry, and he might know, at that.

BOYS' CLOTHING SECTION—BASEMENT

BANSHEE WAS AN IMPRISONED CAT

There was a ghost, a banshee, a dark, dread spirit of evil, who moaned like a lost soul in torment, lurking somewhere about the house—at least, that's the way some of the residents of a three-tenement block on Adams street described the weird, unearthly noises which had caused them to shudder and thrill during the past week. As a matter of fact, however, it was only a cat.

Patrolman O'Neil and Officer Fred Gilmore of the Humane society found the cat yesterday lying between the partitions of the third floor of the building. It was almost starved to death. How it got in between the partitions remains a mystery. The rescuing of the animal, with the consequent labor required to tear down the partition to reach it, made several hours of strenuous work for the two officers and some of the residents of the neighborhood who assisted them.

LAST NIGHT OF THE ALLIED BAZAAR

The allied bazaar at the First Primitive Methodist church—which has been in nightly session since Wednesday evening to raise money for the building fund will come to a close tonight with an entertainment under the direction of John Pooler.

Last evening's event was both successful and well attended. Commissioner James E. Donnelly had charge of the concert program, which embraced songs by Mrs. Alice M. Laughlin, Miss Etta Thompson, James S. King, the Misses Alice and Bertha Dion and the commissioner himself. Miss Bessie Clark appeared in several pleasing dance numbers and Marion Boyle gave a reading which proved highly enjoyable.

DAY FOR WELCOME HOME CELEBRATION

The O.M.I. Cadets are progressing rapidly with their plans for a welcome home celebration to those of their members who served in the world war. Mayor Petry D. Thompson has given his permission for a tag day to be held Saturday, Nov. 23, and on Dec. 5 there will be a dance in Y.M.C.A. hall. Tomorrow afternoon the Cadet football team will meet the Pawtucketville service men on the South common and a number of other features have been arranged for the benefit of the celebration fund.

The celebration itself will be held on the evening of December 7 and the dominating feature will be a banquet. The committee in charge is working hard to make the affair a success.

Hunting for Murderers of Otterson

MANCHESTER, N. H., Nov. 8.—Declining to take the statement of the sister-in-law of Maurice F. Otterson, who was murdered in Hooksett as 'literal, believing that Mrs. Howard Otterson in her hysterical and frightened condition is unable to put the facts together intelligently, Merrimack county authorities are today working on new theories and look forward to an arrest in a few days.

They have practically discarded the automobile bandit story though they are following every clue sent to them from police who have seen strange cars in their towns. The case is assuming more mysterious proportions daily. It has been suggested that outside assistance be called. This is because of the wrought up condition of the inhabitants of the town, and the recent failure of the police to detect the murderers of three other persons, all of which have occurred within the past two years.

AMERICANIZING ALIENS

The classes attended by unnaturalized men and women seeking citizenship are the most powerful of the many Americanizing forces now at work.

We would all be better Americans if we could attend these classes and have our minds refreshed on the advantages and blessings of this country and government.

The main idea expounded to applicants for citizenship is that while our country is not perfect, yet it offers greater freedom and opportunity than any other government.

Especially important is the emphasis that our government is a mutual agreement between the people and that any undesirable or obsolete features of it can be changed through the ballot box or by other peaceful means. Methods of violence are not necessary, and will not be tolerated.

Of all instruction given citizenship classes, the most vital deals with an American citizen's rights and duties.

First is the right to freedom. Then there is the right to liberty in religion, to freedom of speech and press, the right to assemble freely without disturbing the peace, and the right to petition public officers and obtain hearings.

Fifth and sixth of fundamental American rights are the right to fair treatment if accused of crime and the right to vote and hold office, the latter fortunately being extended to include women.

Duty is the fair price of right. The citizen's duties to his government—meaning his organized fellow citizens—are:

The duty of obeying laws, all of which are subject to change at the demand of the majority.

The duty of helping to enforce the laws, even to such details as maintaining clean houses and clean yards.

This program of rights and duties is the spinal column of Americanism.

The program appeals to the fairness and sound judgment of all sane men and women, once it is clearly comprehended by them.

Such comprehension is usually a certainty when unnaturalized residents are drawn into the instructional classes in citizenship.

We do not complete our duty in the Americanization movement merely by voting the necessary money to carry it on.

It is the further duty of every citizen who comes in contact with unnaturalized persons to explain to them the advantages of citizenship, that it is a boon worth striving for.

It should be assumed that no person remains unnaturalized from choice, but rather because the atmosphere of citizenship is not always friendly to him.

Impress upon such men that a warm welcome awaits all new citizens. Extend help and sympathy so that no person can live in America without wanting to become a citizen.—N.E.A.

CARSONIAN HOME RULE

Again the British ministry is moved to propose a form of local self-government for Ireland and this time it is Mr. Carson who is taken into conference to advise the ministry what form of home rule Ireland should get.

As might be expected, the plan is thoroughly Carsonian. Ireland is to be divided into two parts, Ulster and the other provinces, and according to the presumption of Mr. Carson and Prime Minister George, the greater of these is Ulster. A portion of Ulster is to have a parliament of its own and the other three provinces are also to have a parliament, while there will be some sort of national council representing all of Ireland and so arranged that it will be under the domination of Ulster.

Nothing so contemptibly unfair and partisan has been proposed at any time in the past by anybody as a solution for the Irish question. It is condemned even by Sir Horace Plunkett, who believes that the people of Ireland are not divided along religious lines and should not be so divided by acts of parliament. Plunkett has been suspected of being in sympathy with the government on various matters, but in this, he expresses the opinion of every patriotic Irishman. The people who want to see Ireland elevated to a self-governing nation, will never approve any partition of the country on religious lines. Carson and his followers, backed by the British government, are the only ones who favor such a solution.

The aim and object of this measure is to promote discord and factional strife in Ireland. It was by this means that British authority was maintained in Ireland through centuries, when a premium was set upon every form of treason to the country or its people. The man who was mean enough to betray his father, his brother or his mother, his neighbor or his friend was rewarded and honored by the British government. The form of home rule now proposed would set the Irish people before the world as a lot of factionists, keeping up religious strife and hating one another for the love of God. The men who try this to misrepresent Ireland are disseminating infamous lies. The people of Ireland, north, south, east and west, Catholic, Protestant, conformist and non-conformist would live in peace and harmony but for the interference of British politicians, whose sole aim is to promote dissension and strife and set one class of people against another in order that there may be some plausible excuse for the refusal to grant justice in the form of real local self-government. When England extends majority rule to Ireland same as she does to Canada, Australia and South Africa, she may be credited with some honesty of purpose.

The friends of Ireland would prefer to see the island submerged in the sea, rather than accept Carson's plan of disintegrating the nation and disgracing the people by division on sectional lines. If this is all that Premier Lloyd George can offer, he may keep it. It will never be accepted. Better wait until the liberals return to power and until the labor forces assert their influence in the imperial councils. Then, if not before, will Ireland be conceded at least the consideration extended to South Africa. Meantime the fight for Irish freedom will go on and will be carried into the British colonies to Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and India, several of which will soon be as insistent upon political independence as is Ireland today.

The Boston public common, probably the largest vacant space in the heart of any American city, is soon to be pared down to allow Tremont and Boylston streets to become 43-foot thoroughfares.

The so-called common defenders, known as the Boston common society, with dissension in the ranks, has finally yielded to insistent argument that the city needs more space for those two busy streets. The concession is limited, however, for the society stipulates that it will allow this slicing, but "never again must its sacred precincts be marred."

We venture to say that a day will dawn which will see the extensive common cut down considerably to allow for natural business expansion. For a city of Boston's size, its retail trade already is excessively cramped and limited to parts of three streets, Washington from Adams Square to Boylston; Tremont from School to Boylston and Boylston from Washington to Copley Square. The day may come when the common side of Boylston and Tremont streets will be lined with buildings and the common itself cut down to a size only to allow for its continuance as a front lawn to the state house.

The dissension of slicing the common to accommodate Tremont and Boylston streets, by the way, has brought out the fact that 43 feet has come to be the acknowledged scientific width for a business passageway as it allows for four streams of traffic, two going in either direction. Judging from that, Lowell evidently is hardly in the scientific class.

Perhaps one of the most amusing suggestions for the solution of Boston's traffic problem, has been offered by a Mrs. Allen of Shirley, who would have all motor vehicles left on the outskirts of the city and their occupants walk into town. That should work out to perfection in Mrs. Allen's home village. And then again, perhaps the good people of Shirley find it hard to accustom themselves to Boston's bustle on their yearly pilgrimages and that they desire peace and safety of the kind they have at home.

As a result of investigations in connection with the steel strike, Senator Walsh of Massachusetts has come to the conclusion that it is absolutely necessary to enact a law to make it compulsory upon aliens everywhere between the ages of 16 and 45 to learn to read and write. He has framed a bill with this purpose in view, and providing further, that aliens who remain here for five years without making any attempt to become naturalized shall be deported.

As Senator Kenyon is chairman of the committee that investigated the strike, the measure will be named after him, but it is not to be confounded with the other Kenyon bill directed at the monopolistic features of the Chicago packing business.

The committee, it is understood, found a very alarming state of affairs in some of the steel-working districts, where, it is alleged, colonies of aliens numbering in some cases 20,000 lived as if in a foreign land, using their own language and following out their alien customs wholly regardless and probably entirely ignorant of the principles of American liberty and government. Senator Walsh does not over-state the case when he says that this state of affairs is a menace to the nation. His plan is to provide schools where these people will be taught at government expense and obliged to learn to read and write in English. It is believed that if aliens speak our language and learn something about our government they will not be so easily misled by the professional agitators nor become such ready adherents of the advocates of socialistic doctrines and soviet governments.

A temporary appropriation will be made in order to get the work started, but it is estimated that the sum of $12,000,000 will be required annually to meet the expenses incurred by the federal government, while each state will be required to pay a fair proportion of the amount so expended within its limits. It is plain that a large proportion of this work will have to be done in Pennsylvania, Ohio and a few other states in which coal mining and iron works are the leading industries.

It is found that there are 8,000,000 people in this country over school age who cannot read or write, and one of the aims of the Kenyon bill will be to reduce the number of illiterates as far as possible. To carry out this enterprise to the fullest extent, will require considerable work in the southern states, which contribute largely to the total number of illiterates.

Wear your Red Cross button on your lapel if you will, but be sure that you have a membership card in your pocket.

One doesn't hear any very loud talking or spirited arguments about the hotel offices and corridors these days. Wonder why?

The next thing on the docket is the city primaries and, gee, it looks as if there were going to be some pretty warm arguments during the preliminary campaign. Have at it, fellows, but don't get too personal.

Cleveland chamber of commerce library never has had a call from its members for the bible. There is no bible upon its shelves. They're too busy reading check books, ledgers, cost books, efficiency charts, and the like, to find spare moments for the bible.

Nat's Verdict

At one of the famous Lambs' club gambols a few years back a young and aspiring actor appeared on the program in an imitation of Nat Goodwin.

Goodwin was at the performance. After the gambol the young actor was introduced to Nat.

"Were you present at the performance tonight, Mr. Goodwin?" he asked.

"Yes," was the answer. "I was here."

"And did you see my imitation of you, Mr. Goodwin?" continued the young man.

"Yes, I saw it," came the reply.

"Well," said Mr. Goodwin, "one of us is rotten."—Everybody's Magazine.

Playing Safe

A man from the north of Scotland was on holiday in Glasgow. On Sunday evening he was walking along Argyle street when he came upon a contingent of the Salvation Army, and a collection bag was thrust in front of his nose. He dropped a penny into it.

Turning up Queen street, he encountered another contingent of the Salvation Army, and again a smiling "lady" held a collection bag in front of him.

"Na, pa!" he said. "I gied a penny tae a squad o' your folk aroon' the corner jist the noo."

"Really?" said the lass. "That was very good of you. But, then you can't do a good thing too often. And besides, you know, the Lord will repay you a hundredfold."

"Awel!" said the cautious Scot. "we'll jist wait till the first transaction's finished before we start the second."

I have taken RED PILLS they have cured me of general weakness, improved my digestion, regulated my appetite and made me more ambitious and courageous. Before taking RED PILLS I had been treated unsuccessfully by three physicians, and it was thanks to the RED PILLS that I recovered my health. I am today the mother of three lovely, healthy children, and I am firmly resolved that at the first signs of impending weakness, RED PILLS will be the remedy which I will take.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Although the snowstorm which we had here in Lowell the first part of the week did not remain long enough to make a lasting impression on the landscape hereabouts, nevertheless one can see snow from Lowell if he chooses the proper point of vantage. Away up in the northern part of the state or perhaps it is over the New Hampshire boundary line the hills and mountains have their coating of white. I noticed it a few days ago for the first time and thought perhaps that it was merely a temporary affair and that the snow would vanish within a short time. But it is still there, clearly evident from the upper stories of The Sun building. The sky has been clearer off in that direction for the past few days than it has been here in Lowell and the sun shining on the snow high up in the hills makes an unusually pretty picture as viewed from a distance. But intermingled with the aesthetic appeal of the scene is the realization that what is now at a distance will soon be a surrounding reality.

Yesterday noon I had luncheon downtown. Of course this is of no interest to the public, for who cares whether I have luncheon or not. But the conversation I heard while eating might be of interest to many, particularly those who have been and are still running short of sugar, for the little talk between two prominent business men had to do with the trouble in getting sugar. One of them, who is in the confectionery business, inquired of the

"You are better off than I am," said the other, "for I find it very hard to make both ends meet. Last week I went to New York and was given an option on 3000 barrels of sugar at 18 cents a pound, and despite the enormous price I agreed to take it. Yesterday, however, I received a message to the effect that the bargain had been called off and I came to the conclusion that somebody else offered a higher price than I did. Be that as it may, however, I was beaten perhaps by somebody who paid more or it may have been that the seller got afraid of the federal authorities. I understand there is plenty of sugar in New York, but you've got to know just where to go and besides you have to pay fancy prices." This party also stated that in his line of business he is being allowed the same amount of sugar he received during the corresponding month last year, but there is nothing to prevent him from buying elsewhere if he can.

Be Better Looking—Take Olive Tablets

To have a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days, you must keep your body free from poisonous wastes. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets (a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil) act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effect. Take one nightly and note results. They start the bile and overcome constipation. That's why millions of boxes are sold annually. 10c and 25c.

RESERVATIONS TO PEACE TREATY

First of Foreign Relations Committee Reservations Before Senate Today

Reservation Preamble Which President Called "Very Embarrassing" Passed

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The first of the foreign relations committee reservations to the peace treaty was before the senate today and a vote without prolonged discussion was expected. Should the senate dispose of the first reservation before adjournment, consideration of the second reservation, which deals with article 10 of the treaty, will begin.

The second reservation was expected to produce exhaustive debate as article 10 has been attacked severely by treaty opponents. Under the leadership of Senators Borah, Idaho and Johnson, California, both republicans, the so-called irreconcilable group of opponents, it was said, will support a resolution which would make the second reservation more stringent and likely cause breaks in the ranks of both republicans and democrats.

The first reservation on the calendar for action when the senate convened, follows:

"The United States so understands and construes article 1 that in case of notice of withdrawal from the League of Nations as provided in said article, the United States shall be the sole judge as to whether all its international obligations and all its obligations under the said covenant have been fulfilled and notice of withdrawal by the United States may be given by a concurrent resolution of the congress of the United States."

Senator Thomas, democrat, Colorado, has pending a motion that the senate strike out of the first reservation the last 23 words "and notice of withdrawal by the United States may be given by a concurrent resolution of the congress of the United States."

At yesterday's session the senate adopted the reservation preamble which President Wilson described as "very embarrassing" and the vote of 45 to 40 showed the first solid alignment of republican senators including the mild reservationists and irreconcilable groups since the treaty fight opened.

The roll call on the preamble was as follows:

For adoption:—Borah, Brandegee, Calder, Capper, Colt, Cummins, Curtis, Dillingham, Edge, Elkins, Fall, Fernald, France, Fredinhausen, Grona, Hale, Harding, Johnson of California, Jones of Washington, Kellogg, Kenyon, Keyes, Knox, La Follette, Lenroot, Lodge, McCormick, McLean, McNary, Moses, Nelson, New, Newberry, Norris, Page, Phillips, Poindexter, Sherman, Smoot, Spencer, Sterling, Townsend, Wadsworth and Watson. Total 45.

Democrats—Gore, Reed and Walsh. Total 3.

Total for adoption, 48.

Against adoption:—Republicans—McClure. Total 1.

Democrats—Ashurst, Chamberlain, Culberson, Dink, Fletcher, Gay, Gerry, Harris, Harrison, Henderson, Hickcock, Johnson of South Dakota, Jones of New Mexico, Kendrick, King, Kirby, McKellar, Myers, Nugent, Overman, Owen, Phelan, Pittman, Pomeroy, Ramsdell, Robinson, Sheppard, Simmons, Smith of Arkansas, Smith of Georgia, Smith of Maryland, Smith of South Carolina, Swanson, Thomas, Trammell, Underwood, Walsh of Montana, Williams and Wolcott. Total, 52.

Total against adoption, 40.

Against—Bankhead, democrat, Alabama; Beckham, democrat, Kentucky; Harlan, democrat, Virginia; and Stanley, democrat, Kentucky. Total 4.

150 Taken in New York

More than 150 persons were taken in a raid in New York, which was personally conducted by William J. Flynn, chief of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice.

All save 52 were released after examination.

200 Captured in Chicago District

In the Chicago district, including Milwaukee and Gary, Ind., about 200 more were taken into custody, while smaller groups ranging from 50 down to two, were arrested in Detroit, Philadelphia, San Francisco, Newark, N. J., Jackson and five Connecticut cities—New Haven, Hartford, Waterbury, Ansonia and New Britain.

Planned in Washington

Federal agents generally declined to discuss the arrests further than to say they had been planned at Washington several weeks ago. It was reported that in some cities the demonstrations were to include bomb placing and the use of fire arms.

41 Held in Connecticut

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 8.—Forty-one alleged radicals were held in five Connecticut cities today awaiting hearings before United States commissioners as a result of raids conducted by agents of the department of justice last night. Most of those taken into custody were found in their homes and arrested on federal warrants which had been prepared in advance.

The chief activity of the federal agents was in Ansonia, where local police in plain clothes assisted in ar-

AMERICANIZING ALIENS

The classes attended by unnaturalized men and women seeking citizenship are the most powerful of the many Americanizing forces now at work.

We would all be better Americans if we could attend these classes and have our minds refreshed on the advantages and blessings of this country and government.

Especially important is the emphasis that our government is a mutual agreement between the people and that any undesirable or obsolete features of it can be changed through the ballot box or by other peaceful means. Methods of violence are not necessary, and will not be tolerated.

Of all instruction given citizenship classes, the most vital deals with an American citizen's rights and duties.

First is the right to freedom. Then there is the right to liberty in religion, to freedom of speech and press, the right to assemble freely without disturbing the peace, and the right to petition public officers and obtain hearings.

Duty is the fair price of right. The citizen's duties to his government—meeting his organized fellow citizens—are:

The duty of obeying laws, all of which are subject to change at the demand of the majority.

The duty of helping to enforce the laws, even to such details as maintaining clean houses and clean yards.

This program of rights and duties is the spinal column of Americanism.

The program appeals to the fairness and sound judgment of all sane men and women, once it is clearly comprehended by them.

Such comprehension is usually a certainty when unnaturalized residents are drawn into the instruction classes in citizenship.

We do not complete our duty in the Americanization movement merely by voting the necessary money to carry it on.

Impress upon such men that a warm welcome awaits all new citizens. Extend help and sympathy so that no person can live in America without wanting to become a citizen.—N.E.A.

CARSONIAN HOME RULE

Again the British ministry is moved to propose a form of local self-government for Ireland and this time it is Mr. Carson who is taken into conference to advise the ministry what form of home rule Ireland should get.

As might be expected, the plan is thoroughly Carsonian. Ireland is to be divided into two parts, Ulster and the other provinces, and according to the presumption of Mr. Carson and Prime Minister George, the greater of these is Ulster. A portion of Ulster is to have a parliament of its own and the other three provinces are also to have a parliament, while there will be some sort of national council representing all of Ireland and so arranged that it will be under the domination of Ulster.

Nothing so contemptibly unfair and partisan has been proposed at any time in the past by anybody as a solution for the Irish question. It is condemned even by Sir Horace Plunkett, who believes that the people of Ireland are not divided along religious lines and should not be so divided by acts of parliament. Plunkett has been suspected of being in sympathy with the government on various matters, but in this, he expresses the opinion of every patriotic Irishman. The people who want to see Ireland elevated to a self-governing nation, will never approve any partition of the country on religious lines. Carson and his followers, backed by the British government, are the only ones who favor such a solution.

The aim and object of this measure is to promote discord and factional strife in Ireland. It was by this means that British authority was maintained in Ireland through centuries, when a premium was set upon every form of traitorism to the country or its people. The man who was mean enough to betray his father, his brother or his mother, his neighbor or his friend was rewarded and honored by the British government. The form of home rule now proposed would set the Irish people before the world as a lot of factionists, keeping up religious strife and hating one another for the love of God. The men who try thus to misrepresent Ireland are disseminating infamous lies. The people of Ireland, north, south, east and west, Catholic, Protestant, conformist and non-conformist would live in peace and harmony but for the interference of British politicians, whose sole aim is to promote dissension and strife and set one class of people against another in order that there may be some plausible excuse for the refusal to grant justice in the form of real local self-government. When England extends majority rule to Ireland same as she does to Canada, Australia and South Africa, she may be credited with some honesty of purpose.

The friends of Ireland would prefer to see the island submerged in the sea, rather than accept Carson's plan of disintegrating the nation and disgracing the people by division on sectional lines. If this is all that Premier Lloyd George can offer, he may keep it. It will never be accepted. Better wait until the liberals return to power and until the labor forces assert their influence in the imperial councils. Then, if not before, will Ireland be conceded at least the consideration extended to South Africa. Meantime the fight for Irish freedom will go on and will be carried into the British colonies to Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and India, several of which will soon be as insistent upon political independence as is Ireland today.

The Boston public common, probably the largest vacant space in the heart of any American city, is soon to be paved down to allow Tremont and Boylston streets to become 43-foot thoroughfares.

The so-called common defenders, known as the Boston common society, with dissension in the ranks, has finally yielded to insistent argument that the city needs more space for those two busy streets. The concession is limited, however, for the society stipulates that it will allow this slicing, but "never again must its sacred precincts be marred."

We venture to say that a day will dawn which will see the extensive common cut down considerably to allow for natural business expansion. For a city of Boston's size, its retail trade already is excessively cramped and limited to parts of three streets, Washington from Adams Square to Boylston; Tremont from School to Boylston and Boylston from Washington to Copley Square. The day may come when the common side of Boylston and Tremont streets will be lined with buildings and the common itself cut down to a size only to allow for its continuance as a front lawn to the state house.

The discussion of slicing the common to accommodate Tremont and Boylston streets, by the way, has brought out the fact that 43 feet has come to be the acknowledged scientific width for a business passageway as it allows for four streams of traffic, two going in either direction. Judging from that, Lowell evidently is hardly in the scientific class.

Perhaps one of the most amusing suggestions for the solution of Boston's traffic problem, has been offered by a Mrs. Allen of Shirley, who would have all motor vehicles left on the outskirts of the city and their occupants walk into town. That should work out to perfection in Mrs. Allen's home village. And then again, perhaps the good people of Shirley find it hard to accustom themselves to Boston's bustle on their yearly pilgrimages and that they desire peace and safety of the kind they have at home.

As a result of investigations in connection with the steel strike, Senator Walsh of Massachusetts has come to the conclusion that it is absolutely necessary to enact a law to make it compulsory upon aliens everywhere between the ages of 16 and 45 to learn to read and write. He has framed a bill with this purpose in view, and providing further, that aliens who remain here for five years without making any attempt to become naturalized shall be deported.

As Senator Kenyon is chairman of the committee that investigated the strike, the measure will be named after him, but it is not to be confounded with the other Kenyon bill directed at the monopolistic features of the Chicago packing business.

The committee, it is understood, found a very alarming state of affairs in some of the steel-working districts, where, it is alleged, colonies of aliens numbering in some cases 20,000 lived as if in a foreign land, using their own language and following out their alien customs wholly regardless and probably entirely ignorant of the principles of American liberty and government. Senator Walsh does not overstate the case when he says that this state of affairs is a menace to the nation. His plan is to provide schools where these people will be taught at government expense and obliged to learn to read and write in English. It is believed that if aliens speak our language and learn something about our government they will not be so easily misled by the professional agitators nor become such ready adherents of the advocates of socialistic doctrines and soviet governments.

A temporary appropriation will be made in order to get the work started, but it is estimated that the sum of $12,000,000 will be required annually to meet the expenses incurred by the federal government, while each state will be required to pay a fair proportion of the amount so expended within its limits. It is plain that a large proportion of this work will have to be done in Pennsylvania, Ohio and a few other states in which coal mining and iron works are the leading industries.

It is found that there are 8,000,000 people in this country over school age who cannot read or write, and one of the aims of the Kenyon bill will be to reduce the number of illiterates as far as possible. To carry out this enterprise to the fullest extent, will require considerable work in the southern states which contribute largely to the total number of illiterates.

Nat's Verdict

At one of the famous Lamb's club gambels a few years back a young and aspiring actor appeared on the program in an imitation of Nat Goodwin.

Goodwin was at the performance. After the gambol the young actor was introduced to Nat.

"Were you present at the performance tonight, Mr. Goodwin?" he asked.

"Yes," was the answer. "I was here."

"And did you see my imitation of you, Mr. Goodwin?" continued the young man.

"Yes, I saw it," came the reply.

"Well," said Mr. Goodwin, "one of us is rotten."—Everybody's Magazine.

Playing Safe

A man from the north of Scotland was on holiday in Glasgow. On Sunday evening he was walking along Argyle street when he came upon a contingent of the Salvation Army, and a collection bag was thrust in front of his nose. He dropped a penny into it.

Turning up Queen street, he encountered another contingent of the Salvation Army, and again a smiling "lass" held a collection bag in front of him.

"No, pa," he said. "I gied a penny tae a squad o' your folk aroon' the corner jist the noon."

"Really?" said the lass. "That was very good of you. But, then you can't do a good thing too often. And besides, you know, the Lord will repay you a hundredfold."

"Aweel," said the cautious Scot, "we'll just wait till the first transaction's finished before we start the second."

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Although the snowstorm which we had here in Lowell the first part of the week did not remain long enough to make a lasting impression on the landscape hereabouts, nevertheless one can see snow from Lowell if he chooses the proper point of vantage. Away up in the northern part of the state or perhaps it is over the New Hampshire boundary line the hills and mountains have their coating of white. I noticed it a few days ago for the first time and thought perhaps that it was merely a temporary affair and that the snow would vanish within a short time. But it is still there, clearly evident from the upper stories of The Sun building. The sky has been clearer off in that direction for the past few days than it has been here in Lowell and the sun shining on the snow high up in the hills makes an unusually pretty picture as viewed from a distance. But, intermingled with the aesthetic appeal of the scene is the realization that what is now at a distance will soon be a surrounding reality.

Yesterday noon I had luncheon down town. Of course this is of no interest to the public, for who cares whether I have luncheon or not. But the conversation I heard while eating might be of interest to many, particularly those who have been and are still running short of sugar, for the little talk between two prominent business men had to do with the trouble in getting sugar. One of them, who is in the confectionery business, inquired of the

"You are better off than I am," said the other. "For I find it very hard to make both ends meet. Last week I went to New York and was given an option on 3000 barrels of sugar at 18 cents a pound, and despite the enormous price I agreed to take it. Yesterday, however, I received a message to the effect that the bargain had been called off and I came to the conclusion that somebody else offered a higher price than I did. Be that as it may, however, I was beaten perhaps by somebody who paid more or it may have been that the seller got afraid of the federal authorities. I understand there is plenty of sugar in New York, but you've got to know just where to go and besides you have to pay fancy prices." This party also stated that in his line of business he is being allowed the same amount of sugar he received during the corresponding month last year, but there is nothing to prevent him from buying elsewhere if he can.

The Store of Absolute Satisfaction

RATIFY! RATIFY!

The opposition to the treaty by a little coterie of wilful men in the United States senate is becoming very aggravating to the country. Senators Lodge, La Follette, Reed, Poinsett, Borah, Sherman, Gore and Johnson are opposing the best interests of the nation by their unreasoning opposition.

The wrangle over the treaty is blocking the progress of the nation's business. Time that should be devoted to the great problems of reconstruction is wasted in disgraceful contention over amendments and reservations; and as soon as one set of reservations is voted down another is advanced solely for the purpose of delaying or even preventing ratification of the treaty.

The administration is willing to compromise on reservations that will not destroy the covenant of the League of Nations, but rabid hatred for President Wilson apparently is the chief motive for most of the opposition. Most of all the terrible things predicted for this nation if we enter the League of Nations, have their origin in the lively imagination of the senators and are not justified by anything in the covenant which leaves the

LEGISLATURE TO HOLD SPECIAL SESSION

(Special to The Sun)
 STATE HOUSE, Boston, November 8.—The special session of the Massachusetts legislature will convene Tuesday, November 12. Official announcement of this date will be made next Wednesday, following the regular weekly meeting of the governor's council, which must approve the call. While it will be within the power of the legislature to consider any legislation its members may see fit, it is probable that none but emergency matters will be taken up. There is reason to believe that Governor Coolidge, in his call for the special session, will suggest that this restriction be adopted, and it is probable that an order to that effect will be adopted soon after the session convenes.

Foremost among the measures to be considered is the report of the special commission on street railways, which will recommend measures of relief for the Boston Elevated, the former Bay State system, and for street railways generally. It has not yet been finally determined whether the commission will have the courage of its convictions and report the "anti-strike" bill which it has been considering, but publication of the essential features of the bill has brought to the commission a considerable number of endorsements of the proposal, as well as a declaration from labor leaders that they will ignore such legislation if it is passed.

Second, in general interest, will be legislation authorizing better pay for school teachers in certain cities, including Boston. So widespread has been the demand for legislation of this sort that it is entirely probable that two bills will be passed, one dealing with Boston alone, and the other making financial arrangements by which any city or town may increase its present stipends to teachers. Then there is necessity for passage of legislation providing for compensating members of the state guard for duty in Boston since the police walkout. With the overwhelming repudiation of Long, the policeman's friend, at the polls last Tuesday, and yesterday's decision of Justice Carroll of the supreme court denying their petition for reinstatement, it is probable that they will now cease their obstructive tactics and permit the new police force to be organized without further delay.

If this proves the case, it is likely that the guardsmen now on duty will soon be permitted to return to their homes, and the expenditures on their account will cease, but the bills already accumulated will be found to amount to no small figure. There have been rumors to the effect that an attempt will be made at the special session to pass legislation providing for a return to the convention system of making party nominations, at least for officers on the state ticket, so-called. But inasmuch as such legislation would be of no value until next fall anyway, it does not conform to the requirement that only emergency matters shall be considered at the special session, and it is probable that the legislature will insist that it be postponed until the regular session convenes in January.

NEWS OF THE DAY IN POLICE COURT

Charged with assault with intent to murder upon Goon Juen, the waiter at the Canton restaurant who was stabbed during an altercation in the restaurant kitchen on the night of Sept. 17, Wong Loy, employed as cook at the same establishment, was arraigned on continuance in police court today. In view of the fact that the victim of the stabbing affray is still in the hospital, a further continuance was ordered until Nov. 18; bail remaining at $5000. Loy pleaded not guilty, claiming that the stabbing was purely accidental.

Harry Springman of Tewksbury pleaded not guilty to assault and battery on William B. Davenport of that town on the evening of Oct. 31, and had his case continued until Monday. The police allege that Springman celebrated Halloween night by stretching a rope across a piazza and that Davenport was tripped up and bruised by the fall.

The Lafalot club entertained 100 couples at a brilliant dancing party last evening in Highland club hall. The music was ideal, the hall decorations extremely well arranged and the spirit of the affair left nothing to be desired. From a network of wires stretched across the hall were hung red and yellow paper streamers, while bright colored balloons floated above them. Autumn colors and foliage banded the side walls and the electric light bulbs were covered with red crepe paper to allow a soft glow to settle over the hall. Campbell's Banjo orchestra played and Caterer Harvey served luncheon during intermission. The members of the Lafalot club are members of the office force at the Lamson company.

Final papers have been put on record in the sale of a two-tenement house and one cottage situated at 154 Coburn street. This sale was made for Ann Fuchin. The purchaser was Ellen J. Toohy, who bought for home and investment.

The sale of a two-apartment house, situated at 107-109 Warren street, the grantor being Ernestine Grunette of Lawrence, the grantee a Lowell man.

The sale of a large tract of land situated on Pleasant street in Draught, the grantor being Katherine P. O'Donnell of Lowell.

HIT BY AUTOMOBILE

Raymond Devine, aged 11 years and residing at 125 Moody street, sustained a fracture of the leg last evening when he was struck by an automobile in Merrimack street near city hall. The car is owned and was operated by Geo. W. Travers of Nashua, N. H., who claims the boy darted from the rear of a machine that was standing in the street and when in the middle of the street he changed his mind and endeavored to turn back and was struck by the automobile. He was treated at the Lowell Corporation hospital.

COMFORT STATION PLANS

Plans drawn by Architect Henry J. Bourke for a new comfort station on the South common were accepted last evening by the park commission at its regular monthly meeting. The new station will be located just beyond the head of the new wading pool and will measure 24 by 24½ feet. It will be one story in height with tile roof and stucco exterior finish and will be divided into two sections, each with its own entrance.

Teachers Indignant

flag for England and the United States to be an intermingling of both the present flags representing the two nations as one. He said the people of this country should love England very dearly for all she has done for us through her system of civilization. He also stated that American history has not been properly written nor properly taught so far as it bears upon England's treatment of the colonies and her policies of government.

Another speaker of the same type is reported to have told the teachers that our republic is not yet 150 years old and that 150 years hence it may have passed out of existence unless it united with England in spreading Anglo-Saxon civilization throughout the world.

It will be remembered that the British consul general recently presented a Normal school at Providence a British flag as a token of England's friendship and civilization. At that meeting one teacher had the tact to enter a protest by saying that the stars and stripes, the flag of Betsy Ross, is good enough for American teachers.

Even our contribution to the victory won in the world war was belittled by one of the speakers at the Middlesex county convention when he said that it was easy for the American forces to go in and win a victory over the German rabble after all the best men had been killed off by the British forces. He also extolled the work of the British navy.

Another British speaker, a member of parliament, preached an anarchistic system of teaching which if put into effect would utterly destroy parental authority and eventually overthrow our republican form of government and the principles of democracy upon which it is based. In glowing eloquence he said: "Give us the young and we will make a new mind and a new earth in one generation." He did not indicate to what people he referred when he used the pronoun "us," and nobody asked him what kind of a new earth he proposed if he had control of the child mind.

The American people are not ready to submit their children to the British propagandists to be trained in Anglo-Saxon principles, nor are they willing to have their teachers influenced by this invasion of British propaganda.

The question among the local teachers and public generally is, by whom

The latter reported that 21 classes were now organized for non-English speaking people and that the total registration was more than 400.

W. E. GUYETTE—AUCTIONEER

Public Sale of the Attractive Modern Residence Situated in the Highlands at 55 Victoria Street

SATURDAY AFTERNOON, NOV. 15,—3 P. M.

On the premises on the day and hour above mentioned will be offered at public sale this exceptionally desirable residential property. The location is one of the best in the entire city, being strictly residential and easily accessible to both the Highlands and Chelmsford street car lines. The surrounding residences are comparatively new and of the highest class. The lot is large and open, being somewhat in excess of 5,000 square feet.

The house is full two and one-half story and is in "Queen Anne" style. The rooms are eight in number. On the first floor is an exceptionally pleasant kitchen, dining room, living room and front room, as well as a handsome reception hall. There are four comfortable chambers and bath on the second floor and an attic space over all. The house is equipped with furnace heat, soap stone set wash trays and hot water. The plumbing throughout is open art of the most modern type. The floors are of polished hard wood in part. The general construction is of the highest order.

Herein is presented a most unusual opportunity, as there are no residences of this character available for purchase in the entire city and not for some years past has there been one offered at public sale.

TERMS: $100 to be deposited with or secured to the auctioneer as soon as property is struck off. Other terms at sale.

NEW SUGAR SUBSTITUTE ENDORSED BY BAKERS AND CANDY MAKERS

Breweries Converted Into Malt Sugar Sirup Factories---Malt Sugar Sirup Is Made From the Same Grains as Beer

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 8.—Malt sugar sirup is a brand new sweet which has arrived on a commercial scale at the psychological moment to relieve the sugar shortage, say the specialists of the bureau of chemistry, United States department of agriculture, who have investigated various substitutes for sugar.

In addition to being a sweet, malt sugar, sirup has a delicious flavor somewhat resembling that of honey, which adds much to its palatability and value as a sugar substitute.

What It Is

While malt sugar has long been known to chemists, its production on a commercial scale is only beginning. Two factors have stimulated its production recently. The shortage of sugar has developed a market for it, and the recent prohibition law has made available both the raw material and the machinery needed for its manufacture.

Malt sugar sirup is made from the same grains as beer and may be made from corn or potatoes or any plant containing starch. Barley, which was used until recently in the manufacture of beer, can be used now to produce malt sugar sirup.

Breweries Make It

Breweries, with very little change, can be used and are now being used for its manufacture. Up to a certain point the process for making malt sugar sirup is the same as the process for making beer.

Malt sugar sirup looks very much like maple sirup. It can be used for everything that cane sugar is used for. While its use on the table may not be quite as convenient as sugar, it is a most excellent substitute for table use when sugar is not to be had, as it not only provides sweetness but is equal to sugar in food value.

Tested by Bakeries

Malt sugar sirup, at the request of the government, was tested out by commercial bakeries, candy and soft drink manufacturers who found it a perfect sugar substitute. It is now being sold in large quantities to such concerns and is preferred by them to granular sugar.

The wholesale price is from 7 to 9 cents per pound in barrel lots. Many retail grocers do not handle it yet, because there has been little demand for it on the part of housewives. Grocers can now obtain it and no doubt will be glad to do so as the demand for it increases. Housewives can well conserve their dwindling supply of sugar by using it in cooking, baking, and home-made confections, and even on the table for sweetening coffee, oatmeal, and desserts. It can be used for every purpose for which sugar is used. If the housewives want it, the grocers will get it.

Better Than Sugar

While it is not likely that this new sweet will replace sugar for table use in normal times, it undoubtedly will make a place for itself in the household as it is doing in the manufacture of food products. It is an excellent, wholesome sirup, and on account of its delicious flavor, is superior to sugar for some purposes. In cooking and baking, and for making candy it is not only equal to sugar in convenience and food value but is even better because it will not so readily crystallize.

The Laurel Club

Says the old Sun:

"The Laurel club has been organized with these officers: President F. H. McCarthy; vice president, Edward Teague; financial secretary, George Ward; recording secretary, John J. Noble; directors, John J. McMahon, Joseph Donohue, Daniel H. Leary, William Meloy, Andrew E. Barrett, James Dooley, Michael J. Donahue and Harry Bailey. This club is limited to 36 members and any young man of good standing is eligible to become a member without distinction in regard to religion."

25 Years Wed

From the old Sun, Nov. 11:

"The marriage of Manley H. Varhey, head clerk on the Massachusetts corporation and Miss Harriet B. Withers of Harding street, took place yesterday afternoon at the bride's home. Mr. Curran officiated. Mr. Harry P. Knapp was best man and Miss Susie L. Ford of Salem, bridesmaid. The happy couple received numerous wedding gifts."

"Willard Porter Webster and Miss Abbie Simpson were united in marriage last evening (Nov. 7), at the residence of the bride's parents, 321

Stevens street. The interior of the residence was beautifully decorated, potted plants, ferns and chrysanthemums adding to the attractiveness.

"Rev. Dr. Kingsbury of Bradford was the officiating clergyman. The bride was attended by Miss May Parker, with Miss Isabel Pennell of Jamaica Plain as maid of honor. Dr. Charles E. Simpson was the best man. The ushers were Messrs. George R. Kelly and George E. Durgin of Haverhill and Carl Burt of this city. The young couple received many useful wedding gifts. They will reside in North Street, Haverhill."

AFTER THE DINNER GUESTS HAVE GONE

RICH BUT CAN'T COLLECT

Poor Ellis! He Owns Villa's Treasure But He Can't Touch It

BY JIM MARSHALL
N.E.A. Spokane Correspondent.

SPOKANE, Wash., Nov. 8.—Knowledge of the location of millions of dollars' worth of buried bullion—Money and equipment to finance an expedition—Consent of the owner of the bullion—All that's his. But he can't touch the treasure!

And it's turning the hair of Dr. Frederick V. Ellis from brown to grey.

Back in the fastnesses of the hills of Chihuahua and Sonora, Mexico, Panco Villa's loot is buried.

DR. FREDERICK V. ELLIS

Some of it is in silver bullion. More is in gold bars almost too heavy for a man to lift.

In caches, here and there known only to himself and a few of his trusted lieutenants, the bandit supreme of the twentieth century has hidden his wealth.

Villa Would Diver

Ravaged from rich haciendas at the gun point; taken in swooping raids on isolated towns; captured after fierce desert battles with Carrancista troops, this loot—the savings of his years of banditry—General Villa would gladly divide with Americans, if—

The Americans could get it out of Mexico.

Villa's wealth is all dressed up and no place to go.

Neither can he get his money out and purchase his needs in America.

Although a few Americans, in Villa's confidence, know the locations of some of this wealth, they dare not try to get it to the American side.

It is, practically down to the last peso, stolen property.

"I might get over a thousand pounds or so," says Doctor Ellis, "and I might, with luck, repeat the performance."

"But United States secret service men would be on my trail before long, and—"

"Between wealth and freedom—give me freedom!"

To Start Mine

Villa, however, wants to start production again on his silver mine on the Chihuahuan.

"Legitimate" profits from this mine the bandits can spend to arm and equip his troops.

In a letter to J. Paul McClammy, of El Paso, Tex., Villa asks McClammy's aid in this project.

"It is a wonderfully rich mine," Ellis, who is an associate of McClammy, says.

"Some time ago Villa's men worked it for 14 days.

"They took out $13,000.

"Then the Carrancistas came along, captured the mine and shut Villa out."

The bandit now is seeking through his American agents, American aid in reopening the workings.

Ellis and McClammy are perfectly willing to help in this meritorious enterprise, but—

"They haven't."

However—

Ellis is a pioneer in the motion picture business.

He is getting together a company of actors and actresses.

They are going down into the deserts and mountains of Sonora and film Villa in his lair.

Ellis denies the motion picture enterprise has any relation to the buried treasure.

But strange things happen down in Manana land. Curious tales seep through the border. Silent little parties sometimes slip over the Rio Grande on moonless nights.

"We haven't touch it," Ellis repents.

CARMEN'S ANNUAL BALL

Associate Hall Packed at Annual Event by Street Railway Men's Association

A riot of color, melody and mirth; a veritable sea of happy, smiling faces; a gala event which will live long in the memories of the fortunate ones who attended—such was the fourteenth annual concert and ball by the Street Railway Men's association held in Associate hall last evening.

One of the largest crowds in local dancing annals was on hand for the occasion, and unanimously pronounced it the most brilliant, scintillating and wholly delightful affair ever sponsored by the Lowell car men. Delegations from Lawrence, Woburn and Reading were among "those present" and the invited guests included His Honor, Mayor Perry D. Thompson and other members of the city government.

THOMAS J. POWERS, General Manager

The decorations were splendid. A profusion of red, white and blue streamers were suspended from the balconies to the large chandelier in the center of the hall, and this was colorfully draped with the emblems of the allied nations. Vari-colored lighting effects, white-curtained windows, and a match for the "copper" on the beat, was decidedly humorous, and she received a volley of applause.

Then came the O'Reilly family with their own inimitable jazz band and the equally inimitable "Peggy." Perhaps you've never seen little Miss Peggy in action. If not, then indeed you have missed a rare treat. Peggy is the drummer of the orchestra—and several other things besides. The xylophone holds no mysteries for Peggy, and when there is nothing else to do she stages a song and dance act which is absolutely par excellence.

In addition to her orchestral efforts, Miss Peggy sang two novelty songs last evening, and wound up her share of the program with a demonstration of the newest steps and twists from the land of jazz.

Commissioner James E. Donnelly furnished the final part of the concert program as only "Jimmie" can. His last selection, "The Laddies Who Fought and Won," was encored to the limit and all his other numbers were well received.

Thomas J. Powers, president of the Carmen's association and general manager of the event, was everywhere. Busy, courteous and efficient, he contributed in no small degree to the success of the evening's program and was a tried, but withal most happy official when the clock registered 1 a. m. and the throng of merry-makers donned their wraps preparatory to the homeward journey.

And instead of walking home—or inverting one's spare change in a taxi—

REPUBLICANS IN QUANDARY OVER
LACK OF RESULTS

House Wants to Adjourn, But Railroad Bill Is Pending---President Foresaw Action When He Appealed for Democratic Congress

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 8.—Official claims of the government and members of congress here do not believe that Congressman Mondell will be able to go through with the adjournment program he has planned and published for the republican majority. His leadership of the republican side of the house has not been a brilliant success and even if it were possible to keep his party followers in line behind him on questions of ordinary importance it is not seen how he can be strong enough to carry through his plan for adjournment by November 10th, in the light of circumstances—as they exist at this time.

Government officials raised their brows when the majority leaders' ideas were voiced recently. Though they are unwilling to speak officially they do not comprehend how the congress expects in the language of the army "to get away with it." In their opinion there is too much that their departments require in the way of necessary legislation—too many public questions to face against which their departmental activities are continually being pushed—for congress to quit at this time after having done nothing for six months.

The senate of course is preoccupied. But in the house there has been stirred up a hornet's nest over the adjournment proposal. The democrats are ready and anxious to stay in session as long as there is hope of doing any business. The real question is whether the republican members will line up behind their so-called leader, throw over the traces and adjourn in the face of the undone work before them.

The big question arises over the railroad legislation. The interstate and foreign commerce committee of the house has dilly-dallied all summer with hearings of more or less consequences and failed to get down to business until the president and the director of the railroad administration forced them into a corner by warning them that this legislation should be forthcoming. If the government's plan was to be carried out. The committee with Congressman John J. Esch, republican of Wisconsin as chairman and with a majority of five republicans, failed to function on time though they have realized that the legislation would be demanded of them by the end of this special session.

The majority leadership, pursuing a mysterious program of inaction has thus far failed to whip them into line.

Embassy Bill Defeated

Democratic opposition has caused the republican majority of the house committee on foreign affairs to kill the bill to appropriate $130,000 for the purchase of a United States embassy building at Santiago, Chile, sufficient number of the G.O.P. members having joined in the protest against what was termed "a foolish expenditure of money."

The democratic attitude was not that of opposing the purchase of permanent American embassies, but insistence that any such expenditure should be based upon common-sense. For years many Americans have insisted that the housing of the nation's diplomatic representatives in foreign countries was a national disgrace in many instances. The United States, unlike many of the world's leading countries, possesses but few ambassadorial, legational or consular buildings. The exceptions are at Havana, Tokio and Constantinople, together with a few consulates in China.

Henry D. Flood of Virginia, ranking democrat on the foreign affairs committee, voiced the sentiment of his party colleagues in protesting against the proposed Santiago expenditure. It was pointed out that embassy buildings were much more needed in the capitals of Europe than in South America, even in such a large country as Chile. Also that at this time property could be acquired very cheaply in the European cities, and that Uncle Sam now had an opportunity to acquire some real Yankee bargains; an opportunity that would soon pass away.

It was further pointed out that the housing allowance of the ambassador to Chile was ample to maintain his establishment in the style demanded of his position in the diplomatic service. Heretofore the mission to Chile was a legation with a $12,000 annual salary, while the present ambassadorship carries with it $17,500.

It is possible that this rebuff will cause the republicans to attempt to purchase embassies in London, Paris, Rome and other European capitals, rather than to "fritter away" future appropriations.

President Foresaw Muddle

The special session of congress has furnished daily demonstrations of what President Wilson had in mind last autumn when he issued an appeal to the people to return a democratic congress. He had had experience with republican individuals in the blocking of war legislation, and knew they would not hesitate to handle the reconstruction problems, then self-evident, in the same way.

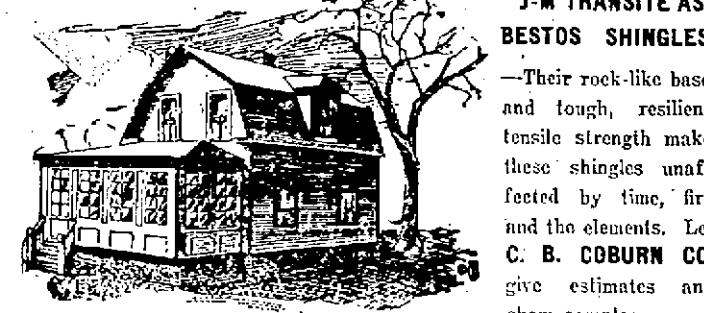

The republican majority in both senate and house has passed little remedial legislation, and then only upon the insistence of the president and other democratic leaders. Republican senators and representatives, elected on their pledges to help carry out the Wilson policies, immediately forget their promises.

One of these Washington observers point out, is Senator Francis E. Warren of Wyoming, who last fall faced overthrow after a political dictatorship of nearly 20 years in his state. His senatorial record was that of the type termed reactionary, and his affiliations were always with that group of the republican party denominated the "Old Guard," of which Senator Boies Penrose of Pennsylvania is the admitted leader.

But he escaped defeat by pledging himself to support the president and then participated in the "Old Guard" organization of the senate, winning the chairmanship of the powerful committee on appropriations despite the protests of the so-called progressive members, who sat in the party caucus. And he demonstrated the sincerity of his pledge to support the president by voting for all the amendments to the League of Nations covenant, any one of which would kill the treaty. In the president's view.

A recently invented dish washing machine can be attached to a faucet and used with dishes placed in a kitchen sink without employing a dishwasher.

Many a little sled was dragged along wet sidewalks during the snow-fall of this week. The great, soft, white flakes were most tempting to little longing eyes and imaginations, but where did they go when they reached the ground? That is the question which puzzled many a small head on Wednesday. And as these little investigators gathered in twos and threes with their sleds, and pondered over the question, they refused to accept the evidence of their own eyes that there was no snow. Instead more than one of them was seen to push his sled along at a run, a hand on either side, then to throw himself upon it heavily, only to become motionless. Having waited to make sure the sled was not going to coast along on the bare concrete sidewalk, the operation was continued again and again as long as the snow fell. Then the would-be-coasters went home, tired, hungry, happy, but discouraged. Not a bit of it!

Red Cross Posters
Never have the Red Cross posters been more beautiful or more appealing. It may be that the need is greater than ever; or it may be that with the cessation of strife the generosity of the people so wonderful during the war, has slackened a bit. In either case, it is pretty safe to assume that the Red Cross is a permanent institution; that always it will have work to do; that always it will have to rely upon the generosity of the public. Then why not accept it as such? Why not let one's benevolence take the form of an annual donation to the Red Cross. And having made up one's mind in the matter, why not give quickly? Has it not been said, and truthfully, "Who gives quickly gives twice?" Then let us give quickly to "The Greatest Mother in the World," and then—forget it.

"I Should Worry"

The person who introduced into our every day vocabulary the significant phrase so widely used, "I should worry," may have been a philosopher, but I wonder if he has been helpful to the youth of today. No one will question the evils of worrying, and the worrying person is without doubt a nuisance to those around him. Nevertheless, when I hear a young man or a young woman throw off all responsibility in some small detail of daily work by using the expression, "I should worry," I feel inexplicably sorry for that young person. For an older person, it does not matter so much, for his habits of life and work are already formed and rarely do they change. But among our young folks just starting out in life, no creed could be worse. What the expression really means is this: "I refuse to be responsible in this matter. That is somebody else's affair. I don't care."

In many cases it may be some little simple affair which easily could be corrected, but which, if neglected, may have large results unfavorable to all concerned. I do not advocate worrying far from it, but I do advocate most strongly that the young person just starting on his career, be not afraid or unwilling to do, occasionally, just a little bit more than the actual work he has been employed for; that he assume a little bit more responsibility than he is paid for, in short, objectionable and misused as the word may be, that he worry a little, for this I know: unless one is big enough and broad-minded enough to be capable of feeling responsibility, he never can leave the tread-mill of the commonplace.

Factory Employees Generous

Often I wonder if it be generally known how generous in the matter of giving money for drives of any kind, the employees of the various large industries about the city always have proved themselves. It is amazing, and to many better off in the world's goods, I am sure it would be a rebuke, to see how freely, how generously, and how willingly the average employee gives of his money, and I do not hesitate to say that it is and has been the donations from these persons which swell the returns of a drive for money to the "over-the-top-point," and not the few who give so largely that the newspapers print their names. They have no press agents to advertise the great work they do; their names and identities never become known through the great good they

271 GORHAM STREET

Lowell, Mass.

BY BETTY BROWN
NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—With the coming of the crisp November days, the street suits built of heavier materials are appearing.

While last winter's season was a "coat" season almost to the exclusion of the suit, this year the honors are about evenly divided between the two types of outer garments.

Its first requisite of warmth and comfort for winter days is perfectly fulfilled, and added to its practicability is its ultra smartness. This coat is developed in black plush, inch-barred with white. The immense crush collar and deep cuffs of seal give it a final note of luxury. Other attractive features are the bias cuff set on some six inches from the skirt bottom and held in place by great bone buttons, and the simple crossed belt.

that never-old part. The unusual suit of brown duvetyne. The coat is a perfectly plain basque with choked col-

FIRST AID FOR PLANTS IN WINTER

Most house plants have a hard time of it, particularly in the early winter, when the tonic of summer sunshine, shade and showers, still contrasts vividly with the hot, dry stiffness of an average living room. Ventilation sufficient for plant health is infrequent; and even the common needs for water and foliage sprinkling are often neglected, if that of sunshine is remembered. As a result, edges of the plant leaves become dried and brown—and the housewife resigns herself to the condition, with only a passing lament that "flowers just won't grow for me."

Plants are individual, each with its peculiar needs. The common rubber plant, for instance, which so often loses leaves and begins to turn down in midwinter, is indicating by this that it is discarding the old and preparing for a new period of growth. It should be repotted, and kept in a very warm place.

One of the hardiest palms used as house plants is the Kentia. But even it is liable to attack by scale during the winter months. The only way to rid the palm of this enemy is to scrub each leaf thoroughly with a small brush. After this has been done, the entire foliage should be washed every other day. This is valuable advice in the care of all hardwooded plants. Unless the pores are kept open the plants can not be healthy.

Usually accorded place as the easiest of all decorative plants to grow successfully, the aspidistra is attractive winter or summer, indoors or out. It requires only a daily bath for its foliage, and a constantly damp soil.

Ferns of all kinds droop in the usual living room atmosphere. They become rusty, and may be covered with scale. They should be watered and given a foliage sprinkling as regularly as each morning comes; and manure should be incorporated with the soil. This latter may be done easily with a knife, without taking the plant from the pot.

way in which house plants are abused. A popular idea appears to be that November is the proper time to repot all plants. This is wrong. A hard-wooded plant should be repotted only when its growth is causing the main stems of the plant to be forced above the soil by roots. Then it should be removed into a larger pot. But as long as the stems are not disturbed, the plant should be left in a small pot, in order that development may be encouraged.

BLUE IN FAVOR FOR SIMPLE GOWNS

By Betty Brown

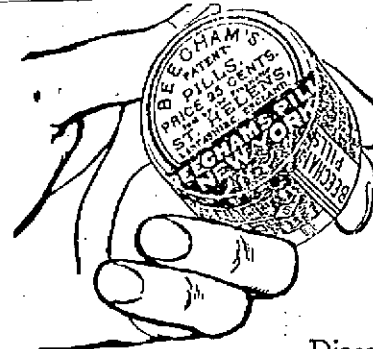

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Dull blue georgette crepe as background for a hinting of deep, vibrant blue, makes one of the loveliest afternoon frocks of simple lines. In the sketch today a deep blue satin skirt is used as a foundation, over which the lighter blue georgette falls in an overskirt, with a few inches of the hem. The georgette is stitched in a block

lar and cuffs of skunk. The ripple collar skirted coat. The deep shawl overskirt is embroidered in dull gold, collar and cuffs are of black seal. The and brown silk and finished with a distinctive feature of this creation is the unusual buckle fastening.

A close-fitting seal toque is worn with this suit, and the woman who possesses such an outfit, with a hand-loom, afternoon promenade, calling, some blouse or two, will have reason to feel perfectly gowned upon any and all occasions before 1 o'clock. And in keeping with the needs of the ordinary wardrobe, it is developed in fawn-colored duvetyne with a full air-crossed about the waist, ending in a looped sash at the side of the front, finished with silk cord tassels of the same shade.

Don't Be a Knocker

Discontent comes from a disordered stomach, a rebellious liver or some foreign substance in the system that ought to come out. Get well and the sun will shine again. The world has no use for a pessimist. Prosperity is at hand. Get your share of it. But you can't if you go about making a sour face and parading your ills to the world. If your woes arise from the condition of your liver, stomach, kidneys or bowels, try Beecham's Pills. They will not only give relief, but will effect a permanent improvement.

At the present cost of living it is hard enough to pay one's own bills without being obliged to support the fellow who doesn't pay.

Most milk dealers sell on credit, collecting weekly or monthly. Some customers pay promptly, some are slow and owe old balances, and some never pay. Those who pay promptly help support the rest. Buy your milk from the Turner Centre Creamery and you will not only get the best milk but you will save one-half cent per quart which is what the ordinary dealer loses in bad bills.

CENTURY SPEEDSTERS AT HONOLULU MEET

Although only 14 years old, Edith Kenn (right) who won the 100 yard dash for women in the May Victory Swimming Carnival at Honolulu, was determined to make Frances Cowells Schroth (center), holder of the national 100-yard straightaway, exert every ounce of energy to retain her laurels in the October 30, 31, and November 1 fall swimming meet at the Island capital. Gird Hjorth (left), wearer of the Outrigger Canoe Club colors, is another Island speedster who wasn't overawed by Mrs. Schroth's prowess. She finished third in the May meet century.

of entering the mayoralty, aldermanic and school committee fights and the majority of the contestants are familiar to the public.

Candidates for Mayor

At the present writing only one new face has entered the mayoralty contest. John J. Donoran, a member of the local police department, who served overseas for nearly two years with the 14th light railway engineers and had the honor of being one of the oldest soldiers to leave Lowell, has taken out nomination papers for the chief executive's office.

Mayor Perry D. Thompson, who is just completing his first term as mayor, seeks re-election. He had previously been a member of the school committee.

Hon. James E. O'Donnell has previously served the city in the capacity of mayor. He is an attorney by profession and was nominated in the fall of 1917 for re-election, but was defeated by the present incumbent.

Jackson Palmer is a practicing lawyer and has previously served for the office of mayor, but without success. He saw considerable overseas service in the world war. Mr. Palmer is a member of the waterways commission and the son of a former mayor of Lowell.

John J. Gilbride is well known to local voters because of the spirited fight he put up two years ago for the nomination for mayor. He was nosed out by a small margin by Perry D. Thompson. Mr. Gilbride is a veteran of the world war.

The aldermanic candidates are all well known to Lowell voters. Charles J. Morse and James E. Donnelly, the present commissioners, again seek re-election, while Francis A. Warnock and George H. Brown, who were defeated last fall by Commissioners Murphy and Marchand seek to regain their former offices. John P. Salmon, another candidate, came into prominence during the war by his work as an overseas Knights of Columbus secretary. Cornelius Desmond is a well known figure in local political circles and he also aspires to aldermanic honors. John B. Curtin is prominent in local labor activities and is president of the Barbers' union. Eugene F. Toomey served in the legislature and Michael J. Quinn is a well known local electrician and has been a student of municipal affairs for some time.

In the field for school committee are: James E. Lyle, well known local journalist and former aspirant for the school board; Parker E. Murphy, also a previous candidate, who enjoys a wide acquaintance throughout the city; Chas. E. Mackenzie, a local salesman whose name has previously appeared on the ballot; Fred C. Weld, a prominent local chemist; James C. Warner, listed in the directory as a conveyancer and well known in the Highlands section of the city; James E. Markham, a young lawyer; Raymond J. Lavelle, a former member of The Sun advertising staff and now a practicing lawyer, and Arthur E. Woodies, a member of The Sun reportorial staff and a former aviation officer in the army.

The Burrell-Wood Fight

One of the interesting results of the state election was the failure of the republicans throughout the state to back up their words with deeds in the contest for state treasurer. When Mr. Burrell was nominated a series of wails and groans went up from the republicans to the effect that the voters had been deceived by the similarity of Mr. Burrell's name to that of the present incumbent, Charles L. Burrell, and they predicted repudiation of the former's candidacy at the polls election day. A large part of the republican press urged the election of Mr. Wood as the better qualified of the two nominees, but when the votes were counted it was found that the republicans couldn't get away from their party boundaries long enough to make Mr. Wood's election a reality. On the other hand, many democrats left their own party and voted for Governor Coolidge. This incident is pointed out by many followers of state politics as an exemplification of the independence of democratic voters in comparison with their republican brethren.

Those who profess to be on the inside say that the present treasurer, Mr. Burrell, intends to be a candidate in 1920. The state law says that the treasurer shall not serve continuously for more than five years. He has already served his five years and the break had to come this year. However, it will be mighty interesting next fall if both Burrell and Burrell once more aspire to the office. There will surely be confusion in the republican ranks with only the difference of a little vowel in the names of the candidates.

Corbett Charter Next Year?

The close vote on the Plan B charter question this year has been cited by many followers of local political affairs as an indication that a large proportion of the local electorate wants a change in the form of municipal government and if the right sort of a proposition is advanced to them they will accept it. Plan B had the disadvantage of having no primary provision and had been vested with this, there is every reason to believe that the majority of 470 votes by which it was beaten, would have been easily overcome. The charter sponsored by Representative Thomas J. Corbett, commonly known as the Corbett charter, which is an amended form of Plan B, will probably go on the ballot at the state election next November. If it is accepted, it will mean that the candidates for city office who are successful this fall will serve only one year instead of two, unless they run under the new charter next year and come out on top.

Registration Sessions

The registrars of voters opened their registration sessions this week for the city primaries, but the response was not as heavy as that which characterized the opening days of the state election registration period. The registrars will hold sessions next Monday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p. m. and next Wednesday from 2 to 9 p. m. continuously.

Lowell Congratulations

Among the letters and telegrams of congratulation which Governor Coolidge received on his re-election were several of interest to Lowell, people. One was from Charles H. Allen, which read as follows: "I am so happy at your triumphant re-election and the evidence it offers of the real heart of the people. It restores public confidence."

Another was from Francis M. Hoyon, representing the local Assyrian association. It read as follows: "Assyrians

STRIKING SHOE WORKERS MEET

Another interesting meeting of the members of the Allied Shoe Workers' union, who have been on strike for the past 15 weeks, was held last night for the purpose of deciding as to whether or they would return to work, action on this important matter having been deferred from a previous meeting. There was a large attendance, reports from various committees were heard and a general discussion followed.

In the course of the evening the executive board conferred with the counsel of the organization, D. J. Donahue and later reported to the meeting, but the report was not made public. Remarks were made by organizers and finally action was again deferred to a special meeting, which will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. At the close of the meeting it was reported that committees from each shop affected by the strike would interview the managements on the question of a speedy settlement and would be ready to report Sunday afternoon. It was also announced that many of the strikers had returned to work and that it was expected all would be at work within a short time.

THE FIRESTONE TIRE ON "ENDURANCE" TRIP

Were you one of the many Lowellians who in the early part of the week saw the big Firestone truck go through the streets of Lowell? If so, you must have been impressed, particularly if you own an automobile, for this heavy truck equipped with Firestone tires is on a coast-to-coast trip to demonstrate the "life and endurance" of this well known tire. Peabody & Brooks, proprietors of the Harwood Tire Shop at 491 Merrimack street are the local agents for the Firestone and if you call on them they will tell you more about their goods.

McAULIFFE SELLS MIRRORS AND GLASS

Expert glaziers are few, but there is one in Lowell and he is P. D. McAuliffe, whose place of business is at 48 Shaffer street and whose telephone number is 4095. Mr. McAuliffe is also a wholesale and retail dealer of glass of all kinds, French mirrors, store fronts, leaded glass, showcases and wind shields. His specialty is resilvering mirrors.

Shortly before his abdication, King Ludwig of Bavaria presented to the wine museum at Speyer several bottles of wine dating from 1516, 1633 and 1823.

STRIKING SHOE WORKERS MEET

Another interesting meeting of the members of the Allied Shoe Workers' union, who have been on strike for the past 15 weeks, was held last night for the purpose of deciding as to whether they would return to work, action on this important matter having been deferred from a previous meeting. There was a large attendance, reports from various committees were heard and a general discussion followed.

In the course of the evening the executive board conferred with the counsel of the organization, D. J. Donahue and later reported to the meeting, but the report was not made public. Remarks were made by organizers and finally action was again deferred to a special meeting, which will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. At the close of the meeting it was reported that committees from each shop affected by the strike would interview the managements on the question of a speedy settlement and would be ready to report Sunday afternoon. It was also announced that many of the strikers had returned to work and that it was expected all would be at work within a short time.

Many a little sled was dragged along wet sidewalks during the snowfall of this week. The great, soft, white flakes were most tempting to little longing eyes and imaginations, but where did they go when they reached the ground? That is the question which puzzled many a small head on Wednesday. And as these little investigators gathered in twos and threes with their sleds, and pondered over the question, they refused to accept the evidence of their own eyes that there was no snow. Instead more than one of them was seen to push his sled along at a run, a hand on either side, then to throw himself upon it heavily, only to become motionless. Having waited to make sure the sled was not going to coast along on the bare concrete sidewalk, the operation was continued again and again as long as the snow fell. Then the would-be coasters went home, tired, hungry, happy, but discouraged? Not a bit of it!

Red Cross Posters

Never have the Red Cross posters been more beautiful or more appealing. It may be that the need is greater than ever, or it may be that with the cessation of strife the generosity of the people so wonderful during the war, has slackened a bit. In either case, it is pretty safe to assume that the Red Cross is a permanent institution; that always it will have work to do; that always it will have to rely upon the generosity of the public. Then why not accept it as such? Why not let one's benevolence take the form of an annual donation to the Red Cross. And having made up one's mind in the matter, why not give quickly? Has it not been said, and truthfully, "Who gives quickly gives twice?" Then let us give quickly to "The Greatest Mother in the World," and then—forget it.

The person who introduced into our every day vocabulary the significant phrase so widely used, "I should worry," may have been a philosopher, but I wonder if he has been helpful to the youth of today. No one will question the evils of worrying, and the worrying person is without doubt a nuisance to those around him. Nevertheless, when I hear a young man or a young woman throw off all responsibility in some small detail of daily work by using the expression, "I should worry," I feel inexplicably sorry for that young person. For an older person, it does not matter so much, for his habits of life and work are already formed and rarely do they change. But among our young folks just starting out in life, no creed could be worse. What the expression really means is this: "I refuse to be responsible in this matter. That is somebody else's affair. I don't care."

In many cases it may be some little simple affair which easily could be corrected, but which, if neglected, may have large results unfavorable to all concerned. I do not advocate worrying, far from it, but I do advocate most strongly that the young person just starting out in his career, be not afraid or unwilling to do, occasionally, just a little bit more than the actual work he has been employed for; that he assume a little bit more responsibility than he is paid for, in short, objectionable and misused as the word may be, that he worry a little, "for this I know: unless one is big enough and broad-minded enough to be capable of feeling responsibility, he never can leave the treadmill of the commonplace."

Factory Employers Generous

Often I wonder if it be generally known how generous in the matter of giving money for drives of any kind, the employees of the various large industries about the city always have proved themselves. It is amazing, and to many better off in the world's goods, I am sure it would be a rebuke, to see how freely, how generously, and how willingly the average employee gives of his money, and I do not hesitate to say that it is and has been the donations from these persons, which swell the returns of a drive for money to the "over-the-top-point," and not the few who give so largely that the newspapers print their names. They have no press agents to advertise the great work they do; their names and identities never become known through the great good they do.

Grandmother Knew

Just what to do to keep her family rugged and well. She believed in nature's remedy, the life-giving juices of leaves, roots and herbs, which are united in SEVEN BARKS and which has been a standard and favorite remedy for Indigestion, Constipation, Kidney, Liver and Stomach Troubles for nearly 50 years.

You cannot be constipated and happy at the same time. If you have a bad taste in the mouth, foul breath, flatulent tongue, dull headaches, drowsiness, disturbed sleep, mental depression, yellowish skin, then you are constipated, and SEVEN BARKS will quickly relieve this disorder, which is the result of liver derangement and severe digestive disturbances.

Be prepared for these emergencies: always keep SEVEN BARKS on hand, and take from 10 to 20 drops in a little water after meals, and it will quickly cause the bowels and liver to act normally.

If you want to get the greatest efficiency out of your body, you should take SEVEN BARKS, so that the stomach may do its best work, and not be handicapped by the burdens of food which sometimes put upon it. For sale by druggists. Price, 50 cents per bottle.

Sun Building

BY BETTY BROWN

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—With the coming of the crisp November days fur-trimmed street suits built of heavier materials are appearing.

While last winter's season was a "coat" season almost to the exclusion of the suit, this year the honors are about evenly divided between the two types of outer garments.

The three models photographed are original American designs by Hickson. The great coat especially took my fancy.

Its first requisite of warmth and comfort for winter days is perfectly fulfilled, and added to its practicality is its ultra smartness. This coat is developed in black plush inch-barred with white. The immense crush collar and deep cuffs of seal give it a final note of luxury. Other attractive features are the bias cuff set on some six inches from the skirt bottom and held in place by great bone buttons, and the simple crossed belt.

fitting basque coat reminds one of the Carmen costumes made famous by the many stage stars who have played that never-old part. The unusual suit of brown ducryn. The coat is a perfectly plain basque with a choked col-

FIRST AID FOR PLANTS IN WINTER

Most house plants have a hard time of it, particularly in the early winter, when the tonic of summer sunshine, shade and showers, still contrasts vividly with the hot, dry stuffiness of an average living room. Ventilation sufficient for plant health is infrequent; and even the common needs for water and foliage sprinkling are often neglected, if that of sunshine is remembered. As a result, edges of the plant leaves become dried and brown—and the housewife resigns herself to the condition, with only a passing lament that "flowers just won't grow for me."

Plants are individual, each with its peculiar needs. The common rubber plant, for instance, which so often loses leaves and begins to turn down in midwinter, is indicating by this that it is discarding the old and preparing for a new period of growth. It should be repotted, and kept in a very warm place.

One of the hardiest palms used as house plants is the Kentia. But even it is liable to attack by scale during the winter months. The only way to rid the palm of this enemy is to scrub each leaf thoroughly with a small brush. After this has been done, the entire foliage should be washed every other day. This is valuable advice in the care of all hardwooded plants. Unless the pores are kept open the plants can not be healthy.

Usually accorded place as the easiest of all decorative plants to grow successfully, the aspidistra is attractive winter or summer, indoors or out. It requires only a daily bath for its foliage, and a constantly damp soil.

Ferns of all kinds drop in the usual living room atmosphere. They become rusty, and may be covered with scale. They should be watered and given a foliage sprinkling as regularly as each morning comes; and manure should be incorporated with the soil. This latter may be done easily with a knife, without taking the plant from the pot.

Repotting, by the way, is another

way in which house plants are abused. A popular idea appears to be that November is the proper time to repot all plants. This is wrong. A hard-wooded plant should be repotted only when its growth is causing the main stems of the plant to be forced above the soil by roots. Then it should be removed into a larger pot. But as long as the stems are not disturbed, the plant should be left in a small pot, in order that development may be encouraged.

BLUE IN FAVOR FOR SIMPLE GOWNS

By Betty Brown

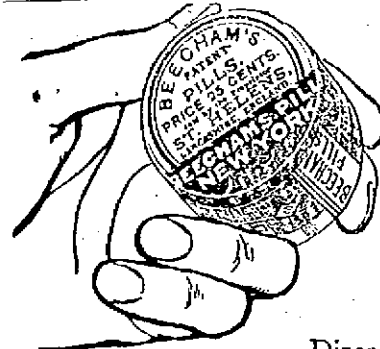

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Dull blue georgette crepe as background for a hinting of deep, vibrant blue, makes one of the loveliest afternoon frocks of simple lines. In the sketch today a deep blue satin skirt is used as a foundation, over which the lighter blue georgette falls in an over skirt to within a few inches of the hem. The georgette is stitched in a black lar and cuffs of skunk. The ripple collar skirted coat. The deep shawl overskirt is embroidered in dull gold, collar and cuffs are of black seal. The and brown silk and finished with a six-inch band of skunk. This suit is too elaborate for morning wear, unless a very formal breakfast or like function is in progress, but for luncheon, afternoon promenade, calling, nothing could be more elegant.

The third model photographed is more in keeping with the needs of the ordinary wardrobe. It is developed in fawn-colored ducryn with a full circle or concert.

Don't Be a Knocker

Discontent comes from a disordered stomach, a rebellious liver or some foreign substance in the system that ought to come out. Get well and the sun will shine again. The world has no use for a pessimist. Prosperity is at hand. Get your share of it. But you can't if you go about making a sour face and parading your ills to the world. If your woes arise from the condition of your liver, stomach, kidneys or bowels, try Beecham's Pills. They will not only give relief, but will effect a permanent improvement.

You cannot attend to your work properly, or with any degree of satisfaction, if your head aches or if you feel dull and grouchy from a disordered stomach, or imperfect digestion. To do your work easily, quickly and well, and to keep at it, you must have a clear head.

If you have been confined in a close room, open the windows or get out for a moment and get your lungs filled with fresh air. If your stomach is deranged from hasty eating, or eating too heartily of rich or indigestible food try a few doses of "L. F." Atwood's Medicine to start up your digestive functions. You will get speedy relief and you will find yourself doing your customary work easily, and with satisfaction to yourself. Fifty cents a bottle at all dealers. Sample free from "L. F." Graduated Increase for P. O. Employees

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The bill providing a graduated increase in the pay of postal employees, pending action of the congressional committee investigating the salaries of such employees, became a law at midnight without President Wilson's signature, 10 days having expired since its enactment by congress.

CAUSES OF STEEL STRIKE

Senate Investigators Report—
All Strikes "Industrial Barbarism"

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Characterizing all strikes as "industrial barbarism" and declaring that "there is no place in this country either for industrial despotism or labor despotism," the senate committee authorized to investigate the steel strike today presented a report covering its hearings both in Washington and in Pittsburgh, and criticizing both the workers and the employers in the controversy which resulted in at least partial disruption of the steel industry.

The report, which was expressed in the statement that "the public has a right to demand that capital shall not arrogate to itself the right to determine in its own way those industrial questions, and it is the same as to labor, and the duty is upon congress to provide some way of adjusting those difficulties."

"As a permanent preventive of strikes, which the committee believes apparently the only way for labor to secure even its just demands if employers refuse to grant them," it is recommended that congress authorize the establishment of some such mediation agency with well defined powers such as the recently dissolved war labor board.

"This board would have the power of compulsory investigation," the report adds on this subject, "but not to the extent of compulsory arbitration. A just decision of the board would be endorsed by the public. There is good sense enough in the American people to bring about an adjustment of these difficulties."

Committee members who conducted the investigation were fairly unanimous in the report, although leaving open points on which they could not agree. The report was signed by Senator Keaton, of Iowa, chairman, and Senators Sterling, South Dakota; Phillips, Colorado, republicans, and McKellar, Tennessee, and Walsh, Massachusetts, democrats.

Treating of the causes of the strike, the committee in its report expressed the opinion that the walkout was precipitated by the determination of the American Federation of Labor to organize the steel industry. Wages are not a factor in the strike, the committee held, being high enough to give no reason for dissatisfaction. Hours of the workers, however, the senators believed, are too long.

LOCAL STORES TO CLOSE ALL DAY TUESDAY

At a recent meeting of the Merchants' Association of Lowell it was voted to close all of the city stores for the entire day on Tuesday, Nov. 11, proclaimed by Governor Coolidge as Armistice day. Generally throughout the city all business will cease, although the textile mills have announced that their operatives may work if they so desire, but all professional men, retail establishments and banks will observe the occasion as a legal holiday.

BOARD OF TRADE'S WORK APPRECIATED

Coincident with his announcement that conductors on the local street cars would sell tickets that allow 16 rides for $1, beginning tomorrow, Manager Thomas Lees of the local division of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co. has sent a letter to Secretary John J. O'Rourke of the board of trade expressing the appreciation of the efforts which the transportation committee of the board made in arranging for the sale of tickets in local stores. Appreciation is also extended to these stores. The letter follows:

Dear Sir: This will acknowledge receipt of your favor of the 5th relative to sale of tickets and assure you that we feel very grateful to the transportation committee of the board and to the dealers who have so cheerfully given their assistance in the matter of placing the tickets on sale in their stores.

In accordance with your suggestion we are placing the tickets in the hands of the conductors for sale, beginning Sunday next. Very truly yours,
THOMAS LEES, Manager.

INFANT MORTALITY RATE HIGH HERE

Based on the number of deaths of children under one year of age, per 1000 births, Lowell's infant mortality rate was the third highest in Massachusetts and one of the highest of 107 cities throughout the United States for the year 1918, according to a statistical report which the local board of trade received today from New York milk committee. According to the report, there were 159.1 deaths of children less than a year old for every thousand children born here last year.

The board of trade received the report at the request of Secretary John J. O'Rourke. The organization is making a study of the high infant mortality rate here in Lowell.

New Bedford had the highest rate in the state, 184.4, and Fall River was second with 161.3. Brookline had the lowest rate in the entire country.

BOWLING ALLEYS AND GAME ROOM

The work of installing four splendid bowling alleys and the building of a game room in the basement of the Community Service club in Dutton st. will commence on Monday of next week. When completed this recreation centre will be fully equipped with the most modern appliances and is expected to prove a great adjunct to the club.

The alleys to be installed are new ones, of regulation size and three types of pins will be on hand—ducks, candles and Boston. The game room will house pool and billiard tables as well as chess and checker tables.

EXAMINATION FOR CENSUS TAKERS

An examination for persons wishing to qualify as census enumerators in Lowell and vicinity for the federal census which is to be taken here beginning Jan. 2, was held in the council chamber at city hall this morning from 9 to 12 with a large number of applicants present. C. P. Cronin was in charge. A second session was held from 1 to 4 this afternoon and the final session will continue from 1 to 7 p. m. Approximately 300 people made application to take the examinations. There will be 70 positions available in this district.

NEW BEDFORD MAY BUILD AUDITORIUM

The chairman of the committee on soldiers' memorials of the New Bedford chamber of commerce has written to Secretary John J. O'Rourke of the local board of trade relative to the procedure which local authorities took to secure legislative co-operation in the erection of the city's proposed memorial auditorium. The communication states that the committee strongly favors the auditorium plan of commemorating the deeds of the city's heroes and would like detailed information as to how the local project was started and brought into reality. Through the efforts of the local board of trade, Lowell was the first city in the state to secure legislative action on the matter of erecting a soldiers' and sailors' memorial.

THIEVES BREAK CLUB SAFE WITH AXE

Breaking open the safe with an axe, thieves secured $64 in cash at the C.M.A.C. club house on Pawtucket st. last night. They made an entrance by forcing open a rear window, and escaped without leaving a single clue to their identity. The police are investigating.

MATRIMONIAL

Mr. Clarence C. Wadde of Westfield and Miss Lydia Machon of North Chelmsford were married Nov. 5 at the home of the bride by Rev. N. W. Matthews of this city. The best man was Mr. Joseph Machon, while the bridesmaid was Miss Eva B. Wadde. The couple will make their home in Westfield.

The office of the company is at 152 Paige street, and the yard at 700 Broadway, and both places have telephone connections.

HEAT WITH GAS AND SAVE COAL
For heat that leaves no dust, heat that is at your command any time anywhere, that gives you warmth and comfort where you want it without waste, gas heat is what you want. During this mild weather it is wise to heat one's home or office with a gas heater, for this will enable you to save your valuable fuel for colder weather. Call at the Gas Appliance store at 72 Merrimack street and they will demonstrate the numerous qualities of gas heaters.

BLAIS AND LUSSIER AT ALBERT'S GARAGE

Although their establishment has been opened but a few months, Blais & Lussier, proprietors of Albert's garage at 195 Hall street, report a tremendous business. Of course there is a reason, for those two men are experts in their line and they count a host of friends, who appreciate their work. They do all kinds of tire and auto repairing and their prices are the lowest. They also carry a full line of oils, grease, gasoline, accessories and supplies.

to street railway men. It was a tough old night for all out-of-door men and coming so unexpectedly, it will be followed by a train of physical ills which will make the pharisees' business boom. Wires were down in various sections of the city but there was no serious damage."

Hurkes Memorial Day

About the first of November each year, the old Hurkes institute had the pious custom of holding a memorial service for deceased members. On Nov. 5, quarter century ago, it held its memorial service with a parade to the cemetery. From the report of the exercises in the old Sun, the following is taken:

"The Hurkes Temperance Institute observed its fifth annual memorial Sunday yesterday in honor of the memory of its deceased members. The society, numbering 200, met at its hall and headed by Post 12 band, marched to the Immaculate Conception church where the Y.M.C.I. of Belvidere, 100 in number, joined it. Led by the American Life and Bugle corps the line moved through East Merrimack, Central and Gorham streets to the Catholic cemetery. William E. McCarthy was marshal of the Hurkes and Thomas Quinn of the Y.M.C.I. In the ranks of the latter Rev. Fr. Joyce, O.M.I., rode in the baroque drawn by four white horses. In another carriage were Rev. Frs. Dacey and McAviney, O.M.I.

"An immense concourse of people followed the parade to the cemetery, where the line stopped and Rev. Fr. Joyce said the prayer for the dead and the band played a dirge. Similar services were held at the graves of the late president, Michael J. Sexton. The graves of all of the deceased members were decorated. The line re-formed and marched downtown to the hall of the society where addresses were delivered."

Election 25 Years Ago

Quarter century ago, there was a hot political campaign in which the democrats were beaten except in the old strongholds which stood impregnable to republican attack, such as old ward three. But in that year Governor Greenhalge, running for a second term, carried Lowell by 1198 over his democratic opponent, Hon. John E. Russell. It is a remarkable coincidence that Gov. Coolidge on last Tuesday, carried Lowell by 1185, almost the same as the Greenhalge triumph.

In that year also Hon. Peter J. Brady was beaten by Ethier S. Pass for the senate by 735 votes. Hon. George W. Fildes was defeated by Wm S. Knox for congress by a large majority in the district but by a lead of only 76 in Lowell. In New York Tammany was beaten in the city and the Hill machine in the state. But Tammany still lives.

The Lowell Orchestral society was a very active musical organization in its early years. It usually gave an annual recital that attracted a large audience of music lovers. The following item will be of interest to the members and friends of the organization:

"The Orchestral society will hold its first recital on Sunday afternoon in Runkle hall and Mr. Fritz Hargies, violinist and Mrs. Alice Jenkins, soprano, will be the assisting artists. The membership of the orchestra is as follows:

"Violins—Amy L. Tucker, Nettie L. Bryant, Ethel M. Charlton, Louise Allen, Helen Dempsey, Agnes Williams, Marie Cronin, Mattie M. Swan, Maud Butler, Florence Charlton, Thomas Nesmith, M. E. Wood, F. GREAT BARGAINS AT THE QUALITY SHOP

Here are a few of the many rare bargains that are being offered at The Quality Shop at 112 Middlesex street and The Outlet, 231 Middlesex street: $1 velvet hats for $5; $5 felt hats for $3.50. In addition pure wool sweaters of all kinds are also on sale at a saving of between 12 and 25. Think over what such bargains mean in fighting the high cost of living. These stores are also sole agents for the famous Elite shoes.

TURNER CENTRE CREAMERY MILK

Despite the fact that the milk producers of New England have raised the price of their milk and that the dealers of Boston, Lawrence and other cities have followed suit, the Turner Centre Creamery Co. of 8 Thordike street is still retailing at the old price, that is pure milk in quarts for $1.25 and in pints for $1.00, providing the ticket system is used. This company's milk is as pure and sweet as ever.

You can order the most magnificent memorial or the most modest one here with the knowledge that you are securing the maximum value in hand-someness of design, perfect execution of the workmanship, and the highest grade marble or granite.
Our stock is most complete, our prices exceptionally close, and for verification of our claims of quality, we can show you many examples hereabouts of our work.
Prices, etc., gladly furnished.

LOWELL WINS, 10 TO 6

Salem Defeated in Fine Game of Polo—Lowell's Team Work Perfect

With the largest and one of the most enthusiastic crowds of the season looking on Lowell defeated Salem in a well played game of polo at the Crescent rink, last night. The score was 10 to 6.

It was a fine game to watch, and despite the fact that Lowell got the jump and was always dangerous and fought back all the way. The third period was one of the fastest and most strenuous 15 minutes of play seen here this season. All hands worked industriously, and goals came thick and fast. But Lowell's superiority was not to be denied, and several times when the invaders threatened to forge ahead, the Hawks crew tightened and held the visitors in check.

O'Brien, Lowell's new halfback, played a strong game and his effective blocking and efficient handling of the ball did much to keep Lowell in front. The acquisition of O'Brien fills an important hole in the Lowell team. He is big, strong and experienced and the knowledge that he is in there allows Griffith more liberty on the floor.

Griffith had a big assignment last night and he proved equal to the task. He was sent after Williams and he kept the flashy "flier" in check all night. When Williams is effectively covered, Salem's chances of victory are slim. He was smothered last night.

Hardy, leader of the "witches" played a fine game of polo. With his star rush practically eliminated, he was obliged to do much on the offensive. Harkins and Davies worked their combination play in expert fashion and turned in about as classy an exhibition as one would care to see. Davies is developing fast, under the expert instruction and coaching of Harkins and his work last night was a revelation.

Both goal tenders had plenty to do, and they performed cleverly.

Lowell got three right off the reel in the first session and just before the horn sounded Salem got one. In the second Lowell scored three more, while Salem added one. In the final session both teams sent four in to the draperies. The score:

LOWELL: Davies, 1r; Williams, Harkins, 2r; O'Brien, 3r; Hardy, 4r; Morrison, 5r; Pence, 6r. SALEM: Griffith, 1r; Williams, Harkins, 2r; O'Brien, 3r; Hardy, 4r; Morrison, 5r; Pence, 6r.

Used Cars

1917 FORD TRUCK—Has six-post top, demountable rims, shock absorbers and other extras. Tires in good shape. Sell reasonably.

1917 HUDSON CABRIOLET—Up-to-date, closed car in good running order. Good buy.

1917 MAXWELL SEDAN—Has received best of care. A nice, light, closed car for little money.

1917 ROSS EIGHT—Seven passenger touring car in first class condition. It's as good as new. A good, sturdy, reliable and powerful car for somebody.

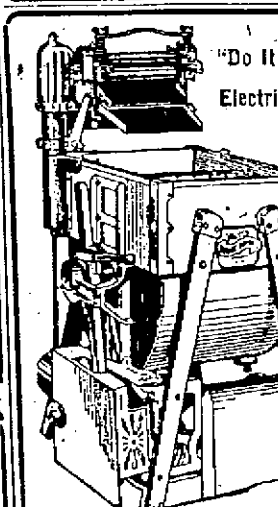

1918 REO SIX—Seven passenger touring car, newly painted and in good shape.

ANNIVERSARY MODEL TOURSTER—Just like new, the greatest buy in the city.

ANNOUNCEMENT

BYAM BROTHERS wish to announce to their many friends and the public that their General Insurance Department has grown so rapidly it has become necessary and also possible to bring to Lowell, to be associated with them, MR. FRANK H. BYERS, of Boston. He has had many years' experience in General Insurance, and for the past eight years has been with the "Aetna," and consequently has a thorough knowledge of the many branches of insurance.

Mr. Byers will have charge of this department, and we can assure our friends and the public that there will be no better protection or service possible to be had in any kind of Insurance you may wish written, than that from the house of "A Square Deal to All."

Sincerely thanking you—everyone who has helped to make it possible for us to make this announcement—we are Cordially yours,
